SQUALUS LIFTED FROM SEA TOMB

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 13—With her 26 dead still entombed within her dank, seaweed-draped steel hulk, the sunken submarine Squalus was broken loose at last today from the grudgingly yielded grip of Davy Jones' locker.

Foot by foot from her ocean-bottom resting place, 40 fathoms down off the Isles of Shoals, the ill-fated undersea boat was lifted, as the most ambitious salvage attempt in U. S. navy history was successfully climaxed.

Twin streams of bubbles, rising to the surface just after 11 a. m., signalled the first victory.

A heavier weight of water than expected in the sunken craft's stern compartments slowed the work of getting that end completely clear of the sea floor.

BLOW WATER FROM SUB

High above the Squalus, where the salvage fleet rode at anchor in the sunshine, heavy pumps thudded like muffled drums and the scream of "high air" being forced into 40 metal-armored hoselines sounded a weird dirge.

The hoselines carried air to seven huge pontoons, five of them tugging at the sunken submarine's stern, two at her bow.

Other airlines were being used to blow water from ballast tanks and interior compartments of the Squalus, herself.

First step was to "jolt" the submarine's keel from the grip of the heavy blue mud in which she lay. The jolt was effected by suddenly admitting tons of water to her forward section.

LIFTED BY PONTOONS

This was the section which originally remained air-filled, the section from which 34 survivors escaped from the Squalus when she took her tragic dive, seven weeks ago.

Once the keel-loosening operation was accomplished today, the still somewhat buoyant bow of the sunken craft began to rise to the pull of the pontoons.

Navy experts, vigilantly checking their sounding cables, immediately gave the word for the air pumps hitched to the forward pontoons to be halted.

Pumps attached to the rear five pontoons continued their steady thump, thump, thump, building up the lifting force of the big submerged cylinders and increasing their terrific tug on the Squalus' stern.

First pontoons filled with air

$20,000,000 Fake Lottery Probed in Boston by G-Men

Secret federal investigation of a huge fake lottery syndicate that has been doing a $20,000,000 world-wide business from a Boston headquarters, and which had victimized internationally famous movie stars, corporation heads and statesmen was revealed today.

The undercover investigation, which has been carried on for more than a year and a half by American postal agents throughout the world and has accumulated five tons of evidence, will culminate in a grand jury hearing beginning before a federal panel in Boston on July 24.

9 FACE INDICTMENT

United States Attorney Edmund J. Brandon and his assistant, Jackson J. Holtz, announced they would seek 70 indictments, at least 20 of them against citizens of Boston.

The syndicate is said to have faked tickets on all well-known lotteries and pools, and to have guaranteed its products with false endorsements of the great in movie, political and business worlds.

Bales of tickets and other evidence are now under guard in government vaults.

IN 28 STATES

Brandon, who asked for the special sitting of the federal grand jury that is to begin July 24, said subpoenas were being issued to more than 100 witnesses in 20 states.

No names of witnesses are to be revealed in advance, Brandon said, for fear they will take to cover.

three weeks to present the great three weeks to present to great mass of evidence that has been gathered. Much of it was garnered in Boston by inspectors under Chief Postal Inspector John J. Breslin and Tennyson Jefferson, his assistant.

SHAKEUP IN STATE GUARD DUE

Fifteen officers and men—from a brigadier-general to a buck private—have been summoned to divisional headquarters, Massachusetts National Guard, in Allston tomorrow for the beginning of an investigation which may rock the guard to its foundations.

Major General Daniel Needham, who ordered the inquiry, is expected to preside in person at hearings which will probably be secret.

And, after the story is told, there may be new faces in posts of high command within the organization.

FILE MANY CHARGES

The cauldron of charges and counter-charges involving alleged payroll padding and other irregularities has been bubbling for more than two years.

It may boil over during the inquiry, drenching all involved in a wave of condemnation, the Boston Evening American learned.

Those summoned include nine officers. They are:

Brig. Gen. Francis Logan, of the 52nd Infantry; Col. Paul G. Kirk, of the 101st Infantry; Maj. Dennis Shillua, of the 101st; Capt. Walter L. Mungovan, supply officer of the 101st; Capt. Edward M. Connors, E Company; First Lieut. Burton E. Stetson, K Company; First Lieut. Lem S. Crafts, L company; Second Lieut. John J. Royle, L Company, and Second Lieut. James J. O'Rouke, B Company.

Six enlisted men are also included. They are:

Sergt. Thomas E. Arnett, of headquarters company; Sergt. Richard J. Byrne, K company; Corp. Henry M. Corbett, K company; Corp. John J. Stetson, K company, and Priv. Charles E. Clarke, K company.

HOWARD LONG
Head Bowed, Facing Death Tonight

SEX SLAYER LONG TO HANG TONIGHT

CONCORD, N. H., July 13—Twelve men, whose names are secret, will watch Howard Long walk to the gallows a few minutes after midnight tonight to pay with his life for the sex-slaying of 10-year-old Mark Neville Jensen.

"I'll hold my head high and bear no malice," was Long's farewell message, although his spiritual advisor, Father George F. Donnelly, stated the prisoner still was "hoping against hope" for reprieve.

Counsel for Long also revealed that Father Donnelly had induced the condemned man to destroy a "life story" he had been writing for nearly a year.

This dispelled a mystery which even Warden Charles B. Clarke and the Long attorney, John S. Hurley, had found baffling.

Asked today if he had suggested that Long destroy his "memoirs," the priest replied quietly:

"I talked with Howard Long about the writings, but you can give him credit for discarding them. He finally realized that it would do no one any good to have them read after his death."

The priest declined to reveal what the theme was upon which the condemned man had been writing.

The doomed man turned to re-

Hearing strange sounds in her bedroom, Pearl Rideout, 17, of Somerville, confronted man leaning over her, screamed in terror, routed him. Police believe the prowler to be responsible for similar scares in the vicinity in the past two weeks.

Somerville Girl's Cries Rout Prowler

Screaming in terror as a man leaned over her bed, pretty 17-year-old Pearl Rideout routed the intruder from the first floor bedroom of her home on McGrath highway, Somerville today.

The prowler apparently forced a door, walked down the hallway and crept into the girl's room. Miss Rideout was awakened as the man advanced toward her bed.

Radio police cars scoured nearby streets in fruitless search for the man believed to be responsible for three similar scares in the neighborhood within the past two weeks.

Police who answered Miss Rideout's call for help found evidence of the nocturnal visit in a forced door. They said nothing had been disturbed and apparently robbery was not the motive.

In the semi-darkness the girl was unable to get clear view of the intruder, but described him as about six feet tall and wearing a khaki cap and pants.

Alarmed neighbors recalled a man had forced entry into a nearby home twice and fled without seizing loot. Another night a man was seen climbing a rear porch in the vicinity, but fled as a pedestrian approached.

Miss Rideout was shaken by her experience, but was able to describe her would-be assailant's moves in detail. That he was aware he was entering a bedroom was apparent, and the girl said he made no attempt to take anything of value.

Girl "Dead" 40 Minutes, Saved by Knife

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Dr. D. H. Werden of San Diego, Cal., reported today the saving of a 14-year-old girl's life after breathing had ceased for 40 minutes, by removing a brain tumor.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the physician stated now, 8 months after the operation, the patient's speech and mentality were normal. The only apparent after effects were blindness and some difficulty in walking.

The respiratory paralysis, Dr. Werden wrote, was compensated for by immediate artificial respiration. There was a prolonged period of unconsciousness which he ascribed to insufficient oxygen in the brain tissues. He said the condition was sufficient to cause blindness but not mental impairment.

Yale Student Found Shot in Cambridge

Gordon Griscom, 19-year-old Cambridge socialite and an honor student at Yale University, was found on a Cambridge sidewalk today, a bullet wound behind his right ear, a .25 caliber automatic pistol at his side, and two empty shells near by.

He was still conscious when found by police, and muttered unintelligibly while being taken to the Cambridge City Hospital.

There he lapsed into a coma, and, later, was taken to the Baker Memorial Hospital where it was said his condition was serious, but his name was not placed on the danger list.

Police were at a loss to account for the shooting, although they held the belief that he had shot himself, missing the first time, wounding himself the second.

FATHER IDENTIFIES GUN

Overstudy and failure to attain the same high marks last year as the year before were given as possible reasons for such an act.

He had been studying at the Browne and Nichols school, Concord avenue, Cambridge, for a scholarship in his senior year at Yale—and had missed.

That the wound may have been self-inflicted was further supported when W. Stuart Griscom, his father, a well-known public relations counsel, told police he believed the pistol was his.

This phase of the inquiry was delayed by the fact that Sergeant Joseph Breen, who took the boy to the hospital, had locked the pistol in his desk at the police station, and had gone on home to bed.

Young Griscomb, whose home is at 19 Willard street, Cambridge, was found in Hawthorne street, a few blocks away.

FAMILY PROMINENT

Griscom's father was publicity director of the Cambridge fund for two years, and last year was publicity director for the Republican state committee, under present Speaker of the House Christian Herter.

He is now publicity director for the Harvard Law School Crime Commission.

There is another son, W. Stuart Griscom, Jr.

The family is prominent socially, and the two boys are well-known in the younger set, both in Cambridge and in Boston.

FR. DIVINE PLANS NEWPORT 'SIN WAR'

NEWPORT, R. I., July 13—"Heaven can wait!"

That's the tune bravely whistled by Newport society today as two determined and wealthy women squared off for a court battle over "salvation" of this swanky spa at the willing hands of Father Divine.

For with the Negro cult leader offering to redeem Newport of "its filth, debauchery and sin," a New York attorney was speeding by air to file a lien against the palatial estate which Mrs. Angela C. Kaufman would sell the plump little Harlemite.

The Vanderbilts, Astors, Belmonts and Oelrichses—who prefer their "salvation" at other hands than those of Father Divine—sighed with relief with the news that Countess Dorothy Fillipponi, former owner of the "Castle," has ordered a lien against the property.

The countess, former wife of Richard Washburn Child, is dead set against her one-time showplace becoming a new "heaven" for the Harlem cultist and his "angels."

She claims she gave Mrs. Kaufman the deed of title to the property for a loan much smaller than the value of the property and that she therefore retains an equity in the "Castle."

TO REDEEM NEWPORT

That's why she is seeking a showdown in Newport Superior Court with Mrs. Kaufman and the latter's attempt to bring the Negro Messiah and his colony to Newport.

Not at all perturbed by swift moving events was Father Divine who thundered to his disciples in New York his willingness to "redeem" Newport society.

The little man who is "God" to his disciples stated "I shall shake society as it has never been shaken before."

STOPS QUICK SALE

"Through my condescension," he shouted, "I am willing to redeem the 400 from their filth, debauchery and sin when they

1st Lady's Column Daily in American

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, joins the writing staff of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, beginning Sunday.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

Her intimate, newsy column, "My Day," will appear daily in the Boston Evening American and weekly in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Not only throughout the United States, but throughout the world as well, public interest has become general in the amazingly frank day by day "diary" of the First Lady of the nation.

The Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser are pleased to be able to present EXCLUSIVELY in Boston Mrs. Roosevelt's comments on life as she sees it in this era of stress, uncertainty and change.

The First Lady's opinions, as expressed in her column, will of course represent only her personal views, not the editorial policy of the Hearst newspapers.

An ardent defender of the rights of women in business and in public affairs, Mrs. Roosevelt also writes as a mother, wife and home-maker. In her Sunday column, she will discuss the problem of teaching children to do useful work without "regimentation."

Hub Has Ideal Summer Day as Mercury Drops

New England's accommodating weather—varied enough to please one and all—turned in a mild day today, with thunder showers possible in widely scattered areas.

One of the summer's best nights for sound sleep saw the mercury drop to 58 degrees at 5 a. m., with a rise to the lower 70's by mid-morning.

It was the coolest summer day since 1888, when the temperature descended to 56.

For tomorrow the indications are for somewhat warmer weather, but with none of the heat wave that has swept the Mid-west.

Zog and Geraldine Depart for Latvia

WARSAW, July 13 (AP)—Exiled King Zog of Albania and Queen Geraldine left Warsaw today for Riga, Latvia, where they expect to stay a few days before sailing for Stockholm en route to London. The former Albanian ruler, driven from his throne by Italy's Good Friday invasion, reached Poland from Turkey by way of Rumania.

LOWELL, July 13 (AP)—Herve Legere, 45, a carpenter, was killed today in a fall from a staging.

TITIAN-HAIRED AUTHOR PLEADS TO FREE LIFER

HARTFORD, Ct., July 13 (AP)—A titian-haired woman writer from St. Catherine's, Ontario, Canada, who is "deeply interested" in Luman Beckett, 40, a lifer at the state prison in Wethersfield, also a writer, appealed to Governor Raymond E. Baldwin's secretary today for his pardon.

Warden Ralph H. Walker at the prison said Miss Ruby Lawrence and Beckett had been "interested" in one another for some time and that they had pooled their earnings from writing for the purchase of a ranch in Canada.

Miss Lawrence was unable to reach Governor Baldwin but she told her story to James P. Lowell, his executive secretary, who referred her to the secretary of the board of pardons, as the chief executive has no pardoning power.

Miss Lawrence, about 40, is staying at a private residence in Wethersfield near the prison.

Court Dismisses Big Milk Conspiracy Case

CHICAGO, July 13 (INS)—Federal Judge William Woodward today dismissed the indictments in the milk conspiracy case against 43 individuals and 14 corporations.

The court made its decision in a 21-page statement sustaining the demurrer to the four-count indictment but the indictment in the companion ice cream case, naming 27 defendants, was not involved in the decision.

'Bad Rosie' Sends 4th Victim to Hospital

TORONTO, July 13 (Canadian Press)—Rosie, "bad" elephant of the Barnum and Bailey circus, sent her fourth victim of the year to the hospital today when she seized Ed Lawes, an attendant, threw him to the ground and trampled him.

Callahan Says Red Tape He Cut Now Being Used to 'Hang Him'

The red tape they implored him to cut in September is now used as a means of garroting him, State Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan charged today in ouster proceedings instituted against him by Governor Saltonstall.

And—said Callahan one of the Harvard Corporation's own board, the board which was most insistent on hurricane tree removal, is a member of the board which has made charges tending toward his removal.

Callahan named this member of the Harvard Corporation as Henry L. Shattuck, a Boston city councilor and former treasurer at Harvard.

FEARED FOREST FIRE

When the crisis broke, said Callahan, Warden Shepard of the Harvard forest in Petersham called him and begged that Callahan give aid in preventing possible conflagration.

Forest Director Shepard said to Callahan, the commissioner testified:

"If a fire started there, it would wind up at the Kennebec river."

The public works commissioner endeavored to get firms lined up for the hazard removal, he said, but because of danger of losing equipment in a fire several firms refused the work.

"We decided," he said, referring to the fact that the three-man commission passed on all contracts, "that the only thing to do was to award contracts on a unit price basis to contractors who had the equipment available, especially at points where it was needed most."

Callahan said he considered the state fortunate in getting the hurricane-felled trees removed for prices ranging from $25 to $100.

He said he had been forced to "barter, trade and compromise" with contractors in order to get the prices as low as he did.

After considering the letting of the contracts under competitive bidding, he had adopted, he said, a unit price system as better adapted to meet the emergency speedily.

Callahan revealed by figures and records that in addition to the state regime supporting hurricane tree and stump removal cost figures, the federal government passed on, sanctioned and aided in payment of the contract costs.

W. F. Callahan

The commissioner further explained that while state witnesses were giving low figures for stump removal that entailed only the pulling out of the stumps, the public works contracts were let on a basis of stump and slash removal, cutting the stumps from one-half to 42 miles and filling in the holes.

Pointing out that many previous witnesses had quoted prices for stump removals that were based merely on removals, Callahan asserted his contracts called for removal of felled tree trunks and brushwood, and even required cleaning up of other debris along the highway.

TOOK OUT WHOLE TREES

"I plead," he said, in driving home his point against the governor's charges, "that there has been a great misunderstanding here that we were only taking out stumps.

"In each and every instance, the contractors were taking out complete trees."

Callahan's testimony supplemented his previous revelation that former Governor Hurley and his Republican-controlled executive council approved the hurricane salvage prices.

Callahan explained that while some stump removals were being made under state contract, prior to last September's hurricane, at $20 per tree, the price jumped in the emergency created by the storm.

He said conditions then were such that standard specifications for removing trees and stumps could not be applied for the work.

"Actually," he asserted, "in each and every case, the contractor removed an entire tree for each stump for which he was paid, and cleared the state roads and right of way of debris, such as fallen signs and billboards also."

Slash Admission To Save N. Y. Fair

NEW YORK, July 13 (INS)—An experimental slash in the admission price to the New York World's Fair from 75 cents to 50 cents a person for parties of 500 or more became effective today as harried exposition officials attempted to revive the lagging attendance.

The admission slash for large parties, designed to attract fraternal organizations and employes of industrial and business concerns to the fair, will be in effect for a limited test period and made permanent if the results justify.

The announcement of the admission price cut temporarily quelled a threatened revolt of concessionaires in the amusement zone who deferred sending to Grover Whalen a resolution threatening a shutdown in 48 hours unless conditions were improved.

LYNN MOTHER OF 3 HELD ON WPA CHECK CHARGES

Charged with forging and passing two WPA checks, Mrs. Arline Marie Siwik, 23, of Blossom street, Lynn, was arraigned today before United States Commissioner Harry N. Guterman.

She pleaded not guilty to the two charges and was released in $1000 bail for a hearing July 18. Bail was furnished by her husband.

Mrs. Siwik was brought up from Lynn by Secret Service Agent Patrick H. Smith, who told the court there are 11 charges in all against her.

DENIES ALL CHARGES

Prior to the hearing, the pretty brunette mother of three children protested her innocence as she was interviewed at her Lynn home.

"I'm innocent. I have never stolen anything. Why shouldn't I smile when I know I'm right. They'll find they were wrong," she said.

By her side in her home was her husband, Stanley, who repeated:

"She never did anything. The officers came here and we did all we could to help them. We went everywhere they wanted voluntarily, and they talked to my wife as long as they wanted. "She's innocent."

Under supervision of Postal Inspector Thomas J. Rice, federal men and Lynn police have been seeking a young woman cashing forged WPA checks in Lynn stores for some time.

Federal Agents Patrick H. Smith and Joseph Haley and Lynn Inspectors John P. Hines and Joseph P. Coyne said the check stealing was a "racket" run by a young man and woman.

SEEK MAN IN CASE

They said the man had been following a letter carrier about his route, stealing checks from mailboxes, and the young woman would cash them in Lynn stores, often for baby food, receiving change.

Mrs. Siwik was trailed to her home after a clerk gave a description similar to hers to police. No man has yet been arrested in the case.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Arthur J. B. Cartier said several similar "rackets" are being worked in other eastern cities, and watch is being kept in many large stores.

Lame, Halt Swarm To 'Miracle' Shrine

NEW YORK, July 13—Nurse Annie Marish lifted her 6-year-old charge, Richard Juliano, out of his stroller and carried him to the New Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, at St. Lucy's Church, the Bronx.

She set him down on the picturesque rocks above which a statue of the Virgin Mary stands, and bathed his feet in the water of the little pool. Then she took him back to his carriage, hopefully.

Fifty persons watched. They were the lame, the halt and the blind. Since Monday night, when Mrs. Anthony Geraci, wife of a tailor, announced the cure, by bathing in the pool, of her left foot, afflicted for 14 years, crowds have come to the new shrine.

Anthony Geraci, her husband, went to church for the first time in 31 years, his faith—lost in 1908 when an earthquake in Italy wiped out his entire family—restored by what he called "a miracle of God."

His wife believed, too, that it was a miracle. She said she could walk normally, without a cane, without steel braces, after dragging her leg for 14 years.

And there have been miracles, says the Rev. Father Pasquale Lombardo, pastor of the church. He points to the braces that Mrs. Geraci wore, that are no longer necessary and that are now at the feet of the Virgin.

RE-ENACTS "MIRACLE"—At the little pool of the Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes at St. Lucy's Church, New York, Mrs. Anthony Geraci shows Fr. Pasquale Lombardo how she was cured of a foot affliction which she had suffered for 14 years. Nine hundred persons attending a novena at the shrine are said to have witnessed the "miracle."

Hub Man Killed In Masher Error

Injuries suffered Sunday at Steeplechase Park, Coney Island, where he was beaten by two men after being mistaken for a "masher," caused the death of Arthur Boutet, 40, Boston commercial traveler, in Coney Island Hospital, N. Y., police said today.

Boutet, who was reported to have held a $10,000-a-year job, was at the amusement park with Miss Jewel Gardo of West 149th st., New York, when the attack occurred.

Police Capt. George Gallagher said Victor Sheldon, 33, and Arthur Polatoff, 31, were arrested, charged with assaulting Boutet, after the attack.

Both were being held without bail last night after Boutet died of a skull fracture.

The two men claimed they were walking on the pier with Mrs. Polatoff and another woman and that some person pinched the women.

Although, Miss Gardo claimed, both she and Mrs. Polatoff told the men they had made a mistake, one of the pair held Boutet while the other struck him.

Dickens' 'Wicked' Romance Revealed

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—A new book today quoted one of Charles Dickens' daughters as saying that he was "a very wicked man" who, at 46, became the intimate of an 18-year-old actress.

The volume, entitled "Dickens and Daughter," was written by Miss Gladys Storey, longtime friend of the late Mrs. Kate Perugini, one of the author's 11 children. Purportedly it is based on the daughter's memories of her famous father.

"More tragic and far-reaching in its effects was the association of Charles Dickens and Ellen Ternan and their resultant son (who died in infancy) than that of Nelson and Lady Hamilton and their daughter," wrote Miss Storey.

She recorded that Mrs. Perugini insisted that "the whole truth" be told after her death, saying:

"This affair brought out all that was worst—all that was weakest—in him. He did not care a damn what happened to any of us. Nothing could surpass the misery and unhappiness of our home."

The book recounts that Dickens met blonde Ellen Ternan through amateur theatricals in 1857 and, keeping an early agreement with his wife, told Mrs. Dickens that he had fallen in love with another. Mrs. Dickens left the author in 1858 after 22 years of married life.

Miss Storey wrote that Dickens impressed on his family that his good name "was their best possession," and an effort was made to establish the separation as "by mutual consent which Dickens brought himself to believe was right."

The wife was given a settlement of $5,000 a year, Dickens also settled a sum on the young actress, who was established in a suburban residence. Miss Ternan in later years married a clergyman.

Mrs. Perugini, who was quoted as saying, "I loved my father better than any man in the world; I loved him for his faults," died in 1929 at the age of 89.

Clipper In, Bomber Out

BOTWOOD, Nfld., July 13 (Canadian Press)—The Yankee Clipper, Pan-American Airways flying boat bound from England to New York, arrived here today at 8:55 a. m., after spanning the Atlantic from Foynes, Ireland.

The Clipper will refuel and continue to Shediac, N. B., thence to Port Washington, N. Y.

The voyage is the first westbound commercial passenger flight over the northern route. Aboard is a group of newspaper and magazine executives.

Thirty-five minutes after the Clipper landed, the 15-ton flying boat built in California for the British Royal Air Force left for Pembrokeshire, England. Aboard were Russell Rogers as pilot and a crew of three.

THOUSANDS FIRED FROM WPA JOBS

By the Associated Press

While the AFL high command speeded up its drive today to restore the prevailing wage rate to the new relief act, thousands of WPA strikers received dismissal notices for ignoring their jobs for five days.

William Green, AFL president, called a strategy meeting in Washington to carry out demands on Congress and the President sanctioned yesterday by federation unions.

The WPA gave out no totals on the number of workers dismissed but a survey showed administrators in several states had mailed large stacks of the discharge notices.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, July 13 (INS) —Taking a personal hand in the relief crisis precipitated by protest strikes of WPA workers throughout the nation, President Roosevelt today summoned Daniel J. Tracy, a building trades executive of the American Federation of Labor, to the White House.

The strikes protesting the new requirement that all WPA employes work 130 hours a month were ignored by WPA Commissioner F. C. Harrington as he conferred in Chicago with state administrators on other restrictions of the new law.

Harrington said wages in the North and West would be reduced September 1, while those in the South would be increased. The law provides that differences in WPA rates in various sections shall be no greater than differences in the cost of living, but that the present national average—$52.20 a month—shall not be changed.

The fire of the AFL was directed, however, at the 130-hour provision.

A resolution to petition Congress for revision of the law was adopted without a dissenting vote yesterday after the AFL leaders had listened to speeches proposing extension of strikes if Congress adjourned without changing the relief measure.

The conference resolution said the mass protests of WPA workers had been "erroneously interpreted as strike against the government."

200 Face Dismissal On Mass. Project

More than 200 Massachusetts WPA workers who quit their jobs in protest against the wage and hours system under the new relief act, faced dismissal today as the deadline approached to end the five-day period in which they were told to "return or be fired."

In the face of demands by such union leaders as President William Green of the American Federation of Labor that they fight the new wage system, delegates of Massachusetts craft unions prepared to discuss the situation in an emergency meeting at Hotel Westminster Saturday.

Skilled workers for the most part have remained on the job in Massachusetts and many who walked out have joined a "return to work" movement.

The Saturday conference will determine the course of action for approximately 35,000 building trades workers in the state.

Reading Man Held In $18,000 Oil Deal

Alleged to have defrauded two Boston women of $18,400 by selling them worthless stock in an oil shipping corporation, Merritt A. Powers of Prospect street, Reading, was arrested in municipal court here today.

A warrant charging ten counts of larceny was served on him by Inspector Daniel Goode of the headquarters bureau of criminal investigation.

Merritt's arrest followed a complaint hearing before Judge Daniel J. Gillen.

LIST THEIR LOSSES

Issue of the larceny warrant was asked by attorneys for Mrs. Nellie Houlihan of Appleton street, South End, and Mrs. Minnie Johnston of Milton street, Readville.

Mrs. Houlihan gave Merritt $12,900 in cash and stock, and Mrs. Johnston gave him $5500, their lawyers said. They claimed the women were induced by misrepresentation to invest in a project for operating oil tank ships from New York to Buffalo and from New York to New Haven.

CLAIMS GOOD FAITH

Merritt told the court the oil-tanker project failed because of an unforeseen marine accident and also because the U. S. Shipping Board raised seamen's wages, "jacking up" operating costs.

He said he sold the stock to the women investors in good faith.

After his arrest, Merritt was taken to police headquarters to be booked and fingerprinted.

Sets Record by 2-Story Fall Out of Bed

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—William Marczak, 28, fell two stories out of bed today.

Unable to sleep in his attic flat because of the heat, Marczak made a bed on the second floor roof at the rear of the building. His wife, Dorothy, heard a noise, looked out and there was William lying on the ground.

He refused medical aid at a hospital, explaining his back was only slightly injured.

5 Hurt in Crash In Swampscott

SWAMPSCOTT, July 13—Five persons were injured, one girl and a man seriously, when two cars collided at Bradley and Atlantic avenues today.

At Lynn Hospital physicians said Miss Pauline Sobocinska, 18, of English street, Salem, had suffered serious back injuries and would be held for further treatment. Also seriously hurt was Abraham Klopel of Clark road, Brookline, who received a fractured leg and cuts about the face.

The others, Miss Louise Fields, 20, of Lafayette street, Salem, Edward Tarrant of Paradise road, Swampscott, and Leonard F. Barrows of Brookline street, Lynn, were treated for cuts and bruises.

Bridge-Tender Held On Fraud Charges

SALEM, July 13 — Thomas W. Brennan, the Beverly bridge-tender who ran a civil service school between boats, was held by Judge George B. Seare in District court today in $1000 on four charges of larceny.

Brennan, police say, charged as much as $125 a pupil, promising to obtain jobs as state vehicle inspectors. There were seven complaints against him. He gave bail, and was released, pending grand jury action in September.

Foes Declare F.D.R. 'Licked' on Arms Bill

WASHINGTON, July 13 (A.P.)—With a big question mark hanging over neutrality legislation, advocates of postponing debate declared that not even a special message from President Roosevelt would revive the proposal to repeal the arms embargo, sidetracked in the Senate foreign relations committee.

"A message would make little difference in the situation," said Republican Leader McNary of Oregon. He thought Congress would adjourn by August 4 or 5.

Representative Rayburn of Texas, House Democratic leader, also looked for adjournment about that time.

All agreed, however, that should the neutrality issue come before the Senate, the session would be prolonged by weeks.

Another phase of international relations was taken up by a strategy committee of the Senate's isolationist bloc, which sought to solidify opposition against a proposal by Senator Pittman (D) of Nevada, to let the President curb the export of war materials to Japan.

The group, most members of which expressed concern that the administration might use Pittman's resolution as a means of getting neutrality legislation before the Senate, was called into session by Senator Clark (D) of Missouri. Pittman promised that the two questions would not be interminglied.

Japs Block Charge Of 200 Soviet Tanks

TOKYO, July 13 (INS)—A gigantic charge by 200 Soviet tanks attempting to cross the Khalka river on pontoon bridges was repulsed by Japanese-Manchukuoan forces in a new battle in the Outer Mongolian-Manchukuoan frontier region, field dispatches to Tokyo said today.

Japs Fix Terms; Slur Britain

TOKYO, July 13 (INS)—In an atmosphere of strong anti-British feeling, the Japanese cabinet met today and decided on sweeping terms for settlement of Anglo-Japanese difficulties, from which, it was declared, Nippon would not budge.

With negotiations due to open in Tokyo Saturday, streets of the capital were posted with signs such as:

"Punch England in the nose!"

"Down with England!"

"England is the arch-devil behind Chiang Kai-Shek!"

Electric Eye Aims Anti-Air Guns in London

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—New anti-aircraft guns, aimed by an electric eye and capable of hurling 56-pound shells seven miles at a rate of 50 a minute now ring London, the Star, evening newspaper, declared today.

The newspaper said every airplane coming near the city day or night is reported and "covered" by these guns as a practice maneuver.

The crew is 50 yards from its gun, the Star said, and spots a plane by a detector. A pointer tells the crew the correct elevation and automatically sets the shell fuse, taking into account the speed of the plane.

PLANE CARRIER DAMAGE SLIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 13 (INS)—The Navy Department today officially announced that the aircraft carrier Ranger had suffered only "very small" damage in a fire which started yesterday while the vessel was undergoing routine overhaul at the Norfolk navy yard at Portsmouth, Va.

Extent of the damage, according to a report to the department from Rear Admiral M. H. Simons, commandant of the yard, was a large area of scorched paint on the hull's exterior. A small launch lying alongside the Ranger also was scorched.

Navy officials discounted reports that machinery within the hull had been badly damaged. They said that reports that the fire caused damage running as high as $50,000 were "highly exaggerated."

Admiral Simons reported no injuries to personnel. The fire, which reports said was caused by spilled gasoline being accidentally ignited, was quickly brought under control.

"THINK WHAT THAT MEANS to buyers of low-priced cars.

"It means that every manufacturer in America making both low-priced and high-priced cars uses 8 cylinders or more in his best cars... but only one of them passes that advantage along to buyers at low price.

"That one is Ford V-8. The only low-priced 8. The only low-priced car with a V-type engine, although such engines hold every world record for performance on land, sea, and in the air!

"Add to that the fact that an 85 horsepower Ford V-8 proved, in this year's Gilmore-Yosemite economy run, that it can give more miles per gallon than either leading low-priced 6 and there isn't much room left for doubt about which new car to buy!"

The best engine... the best of everything!

Besides the only V-8 engine and the proved best overall economy, Ford V-8 also leads the low-priced field this year on all these worthwhile counts!

British Call 12,000 Reservists to Navy

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in Commons today that 12,000 retired naval officers and naval reservists had been called to take part in autumn fleet maneuvers.

He also announced that warships now in reserve would take part in combined fleet naval exercises.

The reservists will be reported to on their stations July 31, the prime minister said and the maneuvers will begin early in August and last until the third week in September.

Chamberlain's statement followed announcement that Britain would allot an additional $167,000,000 for her rapidly expanding air force.

This sum to be used in new supplementary estimates brought the total appropriation for the year to $1,248,000,000.

An increase of 3,000 in personnel of the Naval Affairs from 118,000 to 121,000 also is to be made.

Today's supplementary estimates mark the third readjustment this week of additional rearmament expenditures, and include $63,000,000 for Britain's new supply ministry.

The three increases boosted the 1939-40 arms budget [illegible] largest since the World War and no longer [illegible] in peace-time total of [illegible].

HOOVER SEEKS END TO SLUMP

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13 (AP) —Former President Herbert Hoover suggested today that the engineers of the nation might succeed where economists, politicians and sociologists have failed in finding a solution to the unemployment problem.

Hoover, himself a mining engineer, was guest of honor at "Engineers Day" at the Golden Gate International Exposition.

In a prepared address before a group of engineers, the former chief executive described the problem of employing America's 11,000,000 jobless as a vital emergency job for the objective minds of the engineers.

11,000,000 JOBLESS

He termed engineers the world's "trouble-shooters," the "navigators of industry," and the "third party between capital and labor."

"Your profession is to make things work," he said.

"Something has gone wrong in the functioning of the industrial life. Whether the sociologists, the economists and the politicians are wholly to blame, I shall not discuss. But we have gone through nearly nine years with seldom less than 11,000,000 of our fellow citizens without jobs.

"And unless there be a better solution than the confused thinking now current, there are no productive jobs in sight for them. And so long as they are unemployed, our farmers will suffer also."

Hoover declared that "to get our people back to work is the vital humanitarian problem of our day and age," and that the solution through relief to both unemployed and farmers "cannot go on and indefinitely."

"FAT CAN'T LAST"

"We are borrowing all the money to pay these gigantic deficits which unemployment causes. That road leads to bankruptcy, which no democracy has ever yet survived," he said. "We still have some economic fat on our bones even after these nine years, but it will not last forever.

"It was predominantly unemployment which drove a dozen nations in the last 20 years to abandon democracy and its system of free men.

"The only alternative to long failure of employment is dictatorship and a system of force by co-ordination of a nation. Concentration camps are becoming too fashionable as a part of world economic organization for comfort."

U. S. Probes Seaman's CIO Kidnap Story

PORTLAND, Me., July 13 (AP)—Captain C. M. Lyons of Boston, supervising inspector of steamboats in the New England district, said today an investigation had been ordered in New York by the steamboat inspection service into the story of James H. Yeaton, 22-year-old Portland seaman, that he had been kidnaped there and threatened by National Maritime Union (CIO) members.

Who's Who--Question of Day at Me. Twin Party

LAKEWOOD, Me., July 13 (AP) —Confusion reigned at this summer resort today as twins—hundreds of them — congregated for the state's second annual "twin party."

Some looked alike, and some didn't, but they were all twins—of every age, size, shape and disposition. And the day was theirs, from the morning registration period to an evening banquet, at which they were to hear from a New York psychiatrist, Dr. [illegible] "what science thinks [illegible]."

CROWD ON FALCON

Other pontoons, attached by chains, [illegible] were to be left under water to steady and support the salvaged craft, preparatory to the ticklish task of towing her to shallower depths, then repeating the lift.

Waiting for the first pontoons to break the surface were boat crews from the salvage tug Falcon [illegible]

These boat crews were [illegible] attempt the hazardous task of pulling alongside the bobbing pontoon [illegible] and [illegible] them with [illegible] lanyards.

Thus bridled, the pontoons would be rigged properly to be towed four miles toward shore with their submerged and invisible burden.

A light breeze and a slow rolling sea provided favorable weather for the salvage work, most difficult ever attempted by [illegible]

DIVER'S KINKY JOB

Just 52 days ago, the Squalus turned her blunt steel nose bottomwards in the test dive that ended fatally for almost half her crew.

And at approximately the hour of day the tragic plunge was made salvage operations reached their first critical [illegible]

The big blow [illegible] process of pumping high pressure air into seven huge lifting pontoons far below the ocean surface began at 5:36 a. m. [illegible] originally scheduled.

The delay was occasioned by a final painstaking and superlatively risky check up of airhose and [illegible]

The check up was made by Navy Diver F. E. Smith, who climbed and crawled, step by perilous step through the maze of [illegible] and cables in 240 feet of [illegible] water.

His final task was to open [illegible] last tank valve No. 2 on the forward end of the Squalus at the same time closing compartment valves [illegible] that section of the sunken craft from other sections aft.

He signalled "all clear" just after 8 a. m., and started his slow trip to the surface.

A quarter of an hour later, Rear Admiral Cyrus W. Cole, Portsmouth Navy Yard commandant and general supervisor of salvage operations, gave the order for the "blow."

Air compressors on the [illegible] tug Falcon were reinforced by huge pumps on the submarine Sculpin, sister ship of the ill-fated Squalus.

HOLLYWOOD, July 13 (INS)—Mrs. Lillian Grable, mother of Betty Grable, beautiful star of the films, in divorce court [illegible] husband as a man who once threatened to burn down the home the actress had bought [illegible] out of her mother picture [illegible]

Mrs. Grable was granted a decree from Conn Grable, former St Louis stock broker, after she testified that Betty had supported her parents for seven years [illegible] one day Grable drove [illegible] their home.

The lovely Betty, wife of [illegible] Grayson, attired in a tailored white summer outfit, corroborated her mother's story.

Mrs. Grable told the court that her husband had been "critical, domineering and arrogant" during a large part of their 31 years of married life.

Grable did not attempt to do any work during the seven years, Mrs. Grable said. She continued.

"He said that all he wanted was Betty's money—or what he he termed as his share of it—and he said he would leave us and go back to St. Louis where he would settle down and be rid of us.

"Rather than let Betty and me get hold of the house he said he would set fire to it."

Long, Sex Slayer, To Die in Darkness

ligion on his last day it was disclosed, and Father Donnelly declared Long "is absolutely sane."

"He wants the world to know he is sane and has been doing a lot of religious reading in preparing for death," the prison chaplain said.

Both Long and his attorney, John S. Hurley, had based appeals from the conviction and from the death sentence on assertion that Long is insane, and was insane when he bludgeoned 10-year-old Mark Neville Jensen to death in commission of a sex crime.

"He is resigned to his fate and easy in his mind," Father Donnelly said of Long. "He smiled and seemed thoroughly to enjoy a cigar which I brought to him."

Father Donnelly will walk the last 200 steps with the prisoner.

In a small dark room—the second floor of a vegetable shed at the prison yard—with slanting roof, a blindfold will be pulled over his head—the hangman's knot will be adjusted around his neck—the sheriff will signal "lights out."

At the signal, a concealed electrician will snap the switches throwing the room in darkness and the sheriff and each of two deputies will press his foot on a button lever. One of the buttons will spring a trap on which Long will be standing.

In the darkness Long will be plunged into the room below, and die instantly with the snapping of his neck by the cord.

ONE KNOWS SECRET

No one will ever know which one of the sheriffs pressed the button which actually releases the trap, for some time today a workman sworn to secrecy will "set" the one button and no one but he will ever know which one it was.

Long's execution will be the first in New Hampshire since January 15, 1918, when Frederick Small, one-time Boston stock broker, died for the slaying of his wife, Florence, at Ossipee, in September, 1916.

And it will be the first execution for child slaying in New Hampshire history in 121 years. The only other execution of a child murderer occurred in 1817 when Joseph La Page, a Pembroke woodchopper, went to the rope for killing a schoolgirl.

Although tried on only one of them, Long confessed to two child sex slayings, it was brought out at his trial.

In addition to killing young Mark Jensen, the condemned man admitted the slaying of Armand Nadeau, 9, of Dover, N. H., in November of 1936 — two murders within 10 months of Long's release from Bridgewater State Hospital.

4 Injured in Fire On N. Bedford Yacht

FAIRHAVEN, July 13 (AP) — Four men were injured in an explosion and fire that destroyed the 60-foot cruiser yacht Neola, owned by Thomas H. Kerins of New Bedford, at Town wharf today.

William Foster, near 37 North Fairhaven and Henry Dias, Jr., 30, R. I., captain of the boat, suffered serious burns. Wilbur Days, 31 Fairhaven, received a possible fracture of the leg, and Herbert Days, 37, also of Fairhaven suffered from shock.

2 Nurses, 2 Youths Die in Auto Plunge

UTICA, N. Y., July 12 (INS)—Four young people were killed here today when their car plunged through a guard rail on Deerfield Hill and landed more than 350 feet away. The accident was not discovered for five hours.

The victims were Miss Virginia Dougherty and Miss Urdeth Dan, both student nurses at St. Luke's hospital here, and Robert Vary and [illegible] W. Bright.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

Your kidneys are Nature's chief way of removing excess acids and poisonous waste matter from the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day, or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

It has been said that many times backache, headache, dizziness, nervousness, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, may be caused by kidney trouble.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

DEMANDS F. D. R. ACT IN HARLAN

WASHINGTON, July 13 (INS)—John L. Lewis, head of the CIO and the United Mine Workers of America, today challenged President Roosevelt to intervene in the new and bloody burst of violence in the Harlan County, Kentucky, coal fields.

In a letter to Attorney General Frank Murphy appealing for federal action in the mine war Lewis charged political relaunction against the miners and remarked that the President "can act if he is so disposed."

Lewis emphasized that the President had ample powers to act into the situation which the CIO head attributed to Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler's defeat in the 1938 primaries by Senate Majority Leader Barkley.

HARLAN, Ky., July 13 (AP)—Warrants were issued today against 221 persons—including the President and secretary of the United Mine Workers (CIO) in the Harlan coal field—as the aftermath of a "pitched battle" between pickets and national guardsmen in which a miner was killed and six others, including two troopers, either shot or beaten.

O'Hara Race Battle Moves Into Boston

Despite defeat in Pawtucket, where the counting of proxies showed Walter E. O'Hara the loser in the battle for control of Narragansett Track, the O'Hara committee today carried on the fight in Boston and Washington.

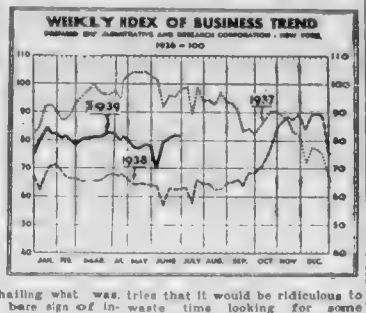
June Business Record Cheering

The June business activity record is complete . . . And it is loaded with solid cheer . . . From the standpoint of individual industrial reports . . . As well as the behavior of composite activity indices, such as that reproduced here . . .

HEDGED . . . By important hot days while contending with seasonal contraction makes June's task severe one in any given year . . . Only strong, and genuine, industrial recovery trends enable it to turn in a rising performance . . . That it was capable of staging a comeback after the May 30 letdown was in itself admirable . . . But when the rise carried to levels not far under the year's best the resiliences of key industries became an inescapable fact . . . Such action, it will be noted was not typical of 1938 . . . Yet a year ago many were hailing what was, in comparison, a bare sign of incipient recovery . . . With the stock market staging a gala celebration . . . Instead of worrying about a coming period of less favorable 1939 to 1938 comparisons public observers should watch the 1937 trade line . . . Because from all appearances and indications it will not be long before activity is climbing above the figures of that year . . . Without waiting for holiday buying influences as 1938 did . . .



SIGNIFICANT . . . Figures from Rhode Island substantiate the cheer read into country-wide activity . . . As a leading industrial state, its experience provides a fair and reliable sampling of trends . . . Thus the increase or decrease in payrolls reported can be looked on as significant . . . During June the figures show an increase for manufacturing industries of 25.9 per cent in comparison with the same month last year . . . Non-manufacturing industries held about unchanged . . . Such a showing is so utterly dependent on a miscellaneous collection of industries as to be meaningless . . .

OLD ADAGES . . . Often prove more than mere strings of words . . . And that concerning blood being thicker than water may be twisted around a bit to fit plans to participate in Bata American shoe expansion . . . For if there is anything in former ties and associations or old friendships Lynn is going to get one of the plants . . . The Chamber of Commerce is asking the Bata company to start a shop in the city . . . Not only was the Czechoslovakia headquarters at Zlin closely akin in name but The Bata Co. once operated two factories in Lynn . . . And Thomas Bata was a member of the Chamber of Commerce there . . .

Stock Prices Continue to Move Higher

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP) The recovery swing continued in today's stock market with leaders adding fractions to 3 points to Wednesday's upturn.

Overnight buying orders piled up sufficiently to make the early proceedings the fastest since last April. A subsequent slow-down accompanied light profit taking.

Brokers attributed the comeback partly to the growing realization the market has lagged considerably behind business, to the lull in foreign war murmurings and to a revival of Wall Street optimism regarding political affairs at home.

There was no specific piece of news to account for the better action of the list, but brokers thought the brightening business horizon and a lull in foreign war talk combined to attract buyers.

European marks were steady with American securities in demand. Bonds moved with stocks. Commodities were mixed. An isolated cloud was seen in recent weakness of wheat at Liverpool. This cereal fell to its lowest level in England since 1542 at the equivalent of 51¾ cents a bushel.

Among items studied by market analysts were:

World copper stocks during June, as summarized by the Copper Institute, declined 7228 tons and, for the first time since last November, refined copper inventory in the United States registered a decrease. World blister stocks were estimated to have dropped 11 402 tons in the month making an aggregate decrease in the total red metal supply above ground of 18,630 tons.

Construction awards, for the week ending today, were placed by the Engineering News-Record at $58,003,000 against $37,549,000 the week before and $54,260,000 in the corresponding week a year ago. Total awards for the year to date were figured at 19½ per cent above the like 1938 period.

Dun & Bradstreet reported bank clearings for the country as a whole, in the week ended yesterday, improved slightly over the preceding week and a year ago despite the sixth year to-year set-back in New York City.

WON'T DISMISS M'KESSON SUIT

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Aron Steuer has refused to dismiss a suit brought by two stockholders of McKesson and Robbins Inc. against an accounting firm which certified financial statements of the drug company that was located by the late F. Donald Coster Musica.

The defendants, Price, Waterhouse and Company, had contended that the suit by Orlando Vecchione and Berta Stern did not state the extent of damages or a proper cause of action.

The stockholders' suit alleges that they relied on the certified financial statements in buying common and preferred stocks of the drug concern.

MILLS THREATEN STRIKE CLOSING

FALL RIVER, July 13 Leading cotton textile mills today announced to shut down in the face of a strike of truck drivers, yardmen and warehouse workers.

Manufacturers declared they had plenty of raw cotton but failure to move finished cloth would cause a shutdown.

Lend-Spend Bill Presidential 'Must'

By ROBERT A. McGILL

WASHINGTON, July 13 (INS)—Acting to forestall another setback at the hands of a Congress anxious to adjourn, President Roosevelt personally put his shoulder behind the wheel today to force Congress to enact his new $3,160,000,000 lending program before it ends this session.

Mr. Roosevelt summoned Representative Henry B. Steagall (D) of Alabama, chairman of the House banking committee, and Representative Clyde Williams (D) of Missouri, another member of the committee, to the White House to confer over the lending program.

The President, it was reported, told them he wanted action before Congress quits.

Meanwhile, administrative congressional leaders fought to offset a reported whispering campaign aimed at the so-called self liquidating lending program.

Pressure to postpone further consideration of the legislation until the next session of Congress was being exerted in the House and Senate. It came chiefly from members of the Senate and House banking committees, which will determine whether the legislation is to be advanced to debate in both houses.

The Senate banking and currency committee continued to hear heads of various government departments who will be called upon to administer the legislation if it is enacted. Jesse H. Jones, head of the new federal lending agency, was today's witness.

Opposition to the program first cropped out in the Senate committee as it opened public hearings yesterday. Senators Adams (D) of Colorado, and Glass (D.) of Virginia, members of the economy bloc expressed disapproval of the plan. They claimed many of its provisions cannot be termed self liquidating, and that the program will eventually revert back to work projects similar to the old PWA program.

MAY HARDWARE SALES BOOSTED

NEW YORK, July 13—Sales of 1951 independent retail hardware [illegible] 35 states showed an average advance of 20.2 per cent, comparing May volume with that of the previous month, Hardware Age will say today in its semi monthly market summary.

Sales for the same stores showed an increase of 13.5 per cent over the volume enjoyed in May, 1938. The total sales for the 1951 stores in May, 1939, was $11,484,062, compared with $9,553,390 the previous month. Volume for May, 1938, for the same group was $10,115,813.

BANGOR POWER EARNINGS DROP

Bangor Hydro-Electric Company reports for 12 months ended June 30, 1939, balance for dividends of $683,523, equal, after preferred dividends, to $1.64 a share on common. This compares with $684,414, or $1.74 on common, in 12 months ended June 30, 1938. June net income totaled $58,688, against $53,355 in June, 1938.

Closed Bank Pays

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 13 — More than 20,000 depositors of the closed Merrimack River Savings Bank today were notified that a final dividend will amount to 7 per cent, instead of 6 or 5 per cent as was forecast earlier.

Wheat Prices Extend Rally

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP) — The wheat market showed signs today of extending the moderate rally which got under way before the close yesterday.

Buying was encouraged by high temperatures in the spring wheat belt and a slight recovery at Liverpool after prices in the English market had slumped almost a cent to new eight-year lows, with July contracts the lowest since 1542.

Early gains here amounted to only about ¾ cent, however, and there were numerous reactions to around yesterday's closing level, with prices holding near those figures most of the time.

Step Up Dividend

Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Company voted a common dividend of 60 cents a share, payable August 10 to stock of record July 25. Three months ago dividend was raised to 40 cents from 30 cents. Last year Co. paid a total of $1.85.

WPA Strike Hints Of Opera Bouffe

Apart from sentiment and emotion, the WPA strike raises a number of interesting questions.

Experienced strategists in the realm of organized labor have long felt that the time to strike is when the employer, with profitable business in the offing, would be embarrassed by a cessation of work.

None strikes when the larder is bare of orders, and when the impoverished employer would be glad to get rid temporarily of the current payroll burden.

Now the WPA strike is out of tune with established traditions. It does not occur at a time when the employer is flush with profitable orders. On the contrary, the whole WPA structure is an emergency measure for providing the semblance of employment to workers otherwise unable to find jobs.

It is a makeshift device for [illegible] human beings over unprosperous periods for marketing human services. Uncle Sam, the employer, is not motivated by the hope of profit out of the undertaking. On the contrary, he is prepared to dip heavily into the federal treasury to maintain the operation.

In the circumstances, a strike can hardly in the normal way interfere with the profitable operations of the employer. On the contrary, if humane considerations were not at stake, Uncle Sam could come far nearer to balancing his budget if the whole project were laid in abeyance.

Accordingly if the human welfare of many families were not at stake, the whole affair would take on the characteristics of opera bouffe.

In addition, the terms of employment are fixed by Congress, and the political question arises of the propriety of a strike against the government of the United States.

ALL THE NEWS AND PICTURES FIT TO PRINT

THE National Safety Council's announcement that motor vehicle deaths per 100,000 population in Massachusetts and Rhode Island are fewer than in any other State in the country directs attention to this Commonwealth's compulsory insurance costs.

Thousands, interested to learn that the fatality rate here is 15 in contrast to 51.2 in Arizona and 60.4 in Nevada, ask:

"Why are Massachusetts automobile owners forced to pay MORE for insurance protection than automobile owners in the other 47 States and the District of Columbia?"

Investigation adds emphasis to the question—emphasis that cannot be ignored by the Governor, the Insurance Commissioner or any member of the Legislature.

In Chelsea, the owner of a Ford car pays $69.70 for a complete liability policy and $23 for property damage—an impressive total of NINETY-TWO DOLLARS AND SEVENTY CENTS.

This is $41.60 MORE than the owner of a similar vehicle living in Connecticut's most costly insurance area pays; $65.70 MORE than in Vermont; $55.70 MORE than in Maine; $48.70 MORE than in New Hampshire, and $58.70 MORE than in Rhode Island.

Also, it is $60.70 MORE than in Nevada, where the motor vehicle death rate is FOUR TIMES AS GREAT as that in Massachusetts.

California has 45.1 automobile fatalities per 100,000 population. But Ford car insurance in its costliest section is $47—$45.70 LESS than Chelsea owners are compelled to pay.

WHY?

"FAMOUS PEOPLE, do they ever have tuberculosis? Or is this disease restricted to the poor and illiterate?" asks a reader in response to Edwin C. Hill's interesting article on this page yesterday.

Tuberculosis does not afflict any particular class or group. Like death itself, the malady recognizes no social distinctions and attacks the millionaire as readily as it does the relief worker.

A list of eminent sufferers compiled by the National Tuberculosis Association would interest this reader.

On that list appear such names as Alfonso XII, Jane Austen, Thomas H. Benton, Robert Browning, Charles Wakefield Cadman, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Jay Gould, President U. S. Grant, John Harvard, William Cullen Bryant, Edith Rockefeller McCormick, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Manuel Quezon, Queen Victoria of Sweden, John Wanamaker and George Washington.

ABOUT DEER AND MEN — Members of the Legislative and Executive departments of the Federal Government ought to read with interest the timely summer warning in Science News Letter which says:

"Deer fed by handouts from summer visitors, in national parks, sometimes become pauperized and cannot fend for themselves when winter comes."

Many will find the human analogy perfectly obvious. Men and women, kept too long on doles and relief rolls, are similarly sapped of qualities of self-reliance.

Human beings like the deer can lose their initiative, and eventually "cannot fend for themselves."

In the circumstances, the great need is for politicians to foster, not oppress, industry, so that it may again give employment to good Americans eager to stand on their own legs.

CONVINCING PROOF that New England is the section of the country most propitious for ideal vacations awaits persons who read the Weather Bureau's latest temperature reports.

Tuesday, while the Boston area relaxed in comfortable 70-degree warmth, other parts of the United States were literally roasted.

Delegates to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs convention found the Kansas City temperature a hot one hundred.

STREET SPRINKLER COOLS LITTLE WESTERNER

Tourists who visited Denver, Col., were even more unfortunate. There, the mercury rose to 101.

The Bridge

A FAIRYLIKE and lacy span . . . it seems in all its strength and pride . . . a tribute to the skill of man . . . defying tempest, time, and tide . . . Across the waters man has hurled . . . this wonder of the modern world.

Human Side of News -:- by EDWIN C. HILL

HEARTENING NEWS comes out of Elyria, Ohio. One man, at least, has finally quit talking about doing something for the long-suffering Middle Class, and is really moving into action. And since the man is the prodigious Walter B. Pitkin, the millions of in-between Americans who have long lacked a spokesman may hope shortly to hear loud, impressive shouts.

Lecturing in Elyria the other day, on a short trot from his home base at Columbia University, Author-Farmer-Professor Pitkin announced that he had begun spade-work for a League of the Middle Class.

The league will be "non-political, non-sectarian, non-commercial." It will seek to arouse the Middle Class to action for its own political and economic benefit and "to correct evils" by pointing public opinion in the right direction.

IF AUTHOR PITKIN doesn't lose interest, the League is just about sure to do all these things. It may do a lot more, for the organizer is one of the few men in the world who seldom miss the bull's eye. Untiring little Arnold Bennett was a second. World-embracing H. G. Wells is a third. Before them was Leonardo Da Vinci. Alongside any of the four a one-armed paper-hanger with the hives would seem to be just a man taking a rest cure. And especially alongside Pitkin.

He has written books enough to start a library: he has run a farm; he has taught four foreign languages, economics, psychology, aesthetics, philosophy, the logic of mathematics and journalism; he has been tutor, printer, junkman, peddler, factory hand, cook, cattleboss, and a crack high jumper in his college days.

AUTHOR—FARMER—PROFESSOR PITKIN
"Begins Spade Work for League of Middle Class"

Incidentally, he has made a pile of money, a lot of it from his best-seller "Life Begins at Forty."

PAST SIXTY NOW, he has far too much hair for a man whose brain has travelled in high so long. His smile is quick and easy-going and his so-so clothes are unfashionable miles short of what the successful man usually wears. He wouldn't get a look alongside Grover Whalen.

It is only when he begins to talk that he lives up to his advance notices.

Once, just to check up, a doubting friend picked 100 words, hit-or-miss, out of a dictionary. Pitkin defined ninety-nine. Still, hit-or-miss, the friend chose thirty subjects from an encyclopedia. Pitkin knew something about 25, and a lot about 18.

He builds up his store of knowledge and his record of performance by sticking tight to the kind of work schedule all of us would stick to if we had his gumption. Before he writes a book he plans it out in detail. Then the writing bangs along at four thousand words or so a day. (And he never revises.) Before he starts any piece of work he plans that too.

Political Parade -:- By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, July 13—No politician knows better than does Mr. Roosevelt how dangerous politically may become the issue of war or peace which he is forcing upon Congress.

He has been a victim of such an issue himself, and while in his buoyancy he may not dread raising it again, his faithful but frazzled Democratic followers at the Senate contemplate it with dire misgivings.

The Senate decided back in 1920 that it stood with George Washington and not with Woodrow Wilson on the question of foreign entanglements.

IT IS determined to repeat that decision if the President persists in forcing it, but admittedly Roosevelt is in a somewhat stronger position today than Wilson was an even 20 years ago, when, in 1919, he submitted for ratification the Versailles Treaty with the inter-woven League of Nations.

Wilson required a two-thirds majority to secure ratification. He could not muster it. Roosevelt needs but a bare majority to secure adoption of an anti-neutrality resolution. With some 40 Senators, of all parties, already in revolt, probably he would fail as Wilson failed if he insisted upon a show-down.

HENRY CABOT LODGE, JR.
"True to the Traditions"

Submitted to the Senate as a treaty, dictated to a defeated enemy at the conclusion of a successful war, the pact of Versailles became, by Wilson's own adamant stand, a political issue which cost his party—the party which had been in power when that successful war was won, and hence should long have remained in power—the elections of 1920. F. D. R. went down in that fight.

The anti-neutrality issue very easily could be made by President F. D. R. politically paramount.

Democratic politicians, who know from their correspondence how strong is the country's demand for peace without foreign entanglements, realize that on such an issue the Democratic Party would be under precisely the handicap which cost it so dearly in 1920.

It is interesting to note that there are still in the Senate 14 veterans who were there when on March 19, 1920, that body finally rejected Wilson's treaty of Versailles.

FIVE of these, Borah, Fred Hale, Hiram Johnson, McNary, and Capper, are Republicans. They are standing shoulder to shoulder today against the Administration's anti-neutrality policy.

Eight are Democrats, Cotton Ed Smith, Ashurst, Pittman, Sheppard, King, McKellar, Harrison, and Glass. One, Norris, was a Republican in 1920, but has since turned independent, and is virtually a New Deal Socialist.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican leader of the Senate when it refused to ratify the Treaty of Versailles, is represented in the Senate today by his grandson and name-sake, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. True to the traditions of his grandfather, he has become an able lieutenant of the great veterans.

PRINCE SERGE OBOLENSKY'S apartment contains a portrait made by a Russian artist who recently arrived in America . . . More than 25 years ago Obolensky had posed for that portrait, which was to depict the type of aristocracy no longer flourishing . . . When the revolution broke out in Russia, Obolensky became a fugitive, and that portrait was placed in the police headquarters under a sign reading: "Wanted—Dead or Alive" . . . The artist who painted it bribed an official to secure it for him. Prince Serge now has it, intact—except for the two bullet holes fired into it by the Moscow police as an indication of what the subject would receive upon capture.

AN MGM British representative arrived in Hollywood last week and went to the office of Harry Rapp, the producer . . . "Well, how are conditions in England?" Rapp asked him . . . "Frankly," the Britisher informed, "we're all positive there's going to be a war" . . . "G'wan," Rapp returned, "that's what you told me last August."

FORMER GOVERNOR ELY moves up considerably as a handicapper by reason of the game win of Fighting Fox in the Massachusetts Handicap . . . To the night-before-race throng at the Copley-Plaza, where the Turf Writers held forth at their annual party, the Governor named William Woodward's handsome thoroughbred as his choice to win the stake . . . Your correspondent, incidentally, has no apologies to make for selecting Pompoon as the probable winner . . . Pompoon was a fit horse . . . With War Admiral on the retired list, and Seabiscuit's future problematical, Pompoon will win a lot of stake races in the next year . . . If it hadn't come up slop for the Big Race, the Louchelm star might have done it at Suffolk Downs yesterday . . . For those who may have bet Pompoon to win only, on this column's prediction, amends will now be made—we hope

THE NIGHTCLUBS AND HOTEL ROOFS struck a bonanza, and an unexpected one, by an outpouring of customers who followed a day at the races with a night at the bars . . . Faces which peered over the railing at the Paddock Club were plentiful at the Ritz, the Mayfair the Cocoanut Grove, and the Sheraton . . . Mayor and Mrs. Dewey G. Archambault of Lowell, Dr. and Mrs. James H. Rooney, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Guyette and Ed Regan, the trainer who hails from Lowell, went from the Paddock Club to the Ritz . . . The Guyettes got a thrill at the track when Bing Crosby, sitting at the next table, switched from his regular brew to quaff a glass of Harvard beer—on the grounds that Harvard is a New England product and that Mr. Guyette is the president of the company . . . Bing and Lin Howard were as downcast as any of the disappointed owners when their horse, Ligaroti, finished a poor next-to-last . . . Neither had an alibi . . . Ligaroti's failure to live to expectations, was just one of those misadventures in horse-racing

ANOTHER VISITOR from California was Dr. William Sexton, who left Boston 17 years ago and has been a pet practitioner with the movie stars for several years . . . Dr. Sexton flew here from the race, and will return at once . . . Three Massachusetts mayors, Tobin of Boston, Archambault of Lowell and Lyons of Cambridge saw the races from the Paddock Club, and a mayor-to-be (his friends insist) was present also in the person of Representative Al Morris, Democratic leader of the House . . . Al will be a candidate for the mayoralty of Everett in the next election . . . Former Governors Curley and Ely were rooting home favorites . . . Governor Curley won the daily double, and his son Paul had a winning day . . . Michel, the maitre d' of the Paddock, distinguished himself again by the smoothest sort of handling of a packed pavillion.

Smart Set - Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

EVEN BEFORE they are old enough to read and write society's toddlers who some day grow up to go to swanky European schools, ski in the Tyrol and promenade along the Riviera get their first inkling of what geography is all about by attending the Christ Church Fair in Hamilton . . .

Every summer prominent mothers take an afternoon off from golf, tennis, committee meetings and other pursuits, to guide their offspring about the booths and tables, which are decorated to represent various countries with many of the saleswomen in the costumes of those nations . . .

Mrs. Forrester A. Clark was led around from one attraction to another at yesterday's Fair by her three youngsters who were torn between the desire to take a peek at the wonders of the Never Never Land and buy fistfuls of toy animals and birds, too . . . Her lovely blonde hair was enhanced by a royal blue linen dress and scarlet cardigan . . . and red and white was the predominant color of the youngsters' outfits . . . Six-year-old Cornelia, who is "big sister" to Forrester, Jr., and Russell, held each by the hand as they posed for a tintype to take home to Daddy, who is familiarly known in polo circles as Big Tim . . .

MRS. LAWRENCE COOLIDGE MRS. RICHARD C. STOREY

MRS. LAWRENCE COOLIDGE and Mrs. Richard C. Storey know the flower-selling business from A to Z, after several years' experience as heads of the flower table at Christ Church Fair in Hamilton. Yesterday they were photographed as they did their usual capable job.

Proving himself a jack of all trades, Russell Burrage, Jr., Mrs. Clark's brother, alternately gave pick-a-back rides to his little namesake nephew, and helped Faith Kidder carry armsful of purchases out to her car . . .

In spite of her enthusiastic interest in the annual fair, some of Mrs. Joe Woods' friends were surprised to see her there in the afternoon . . . for she is not only an ardent horse fan, but a Bing Crosby fan, also . . . and everyone expected her to be in the throng of race-goers at Suffolk Downs . . . The horse-loving Tuckermans were divided, with Tillie at the fair, and her father, Bayard Tuckerman, in the throng at the races . . .

Grandmother Ayer (charming Mrs. Charles F.) initiated her cunning little Winthrop granddaughter from New York into the joys of New England fair-going, and Mrs. F. Wadsworth Busk entered into the spirit of the World's Fair motif by purchasing a couple of canes which have maps of the Flushing Meadows rolled up in the stems . . .

North Shoreites Flock to Fair

MRS JOHN MOULTON and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Hubbard, Jr., had a lot of fun seeing the sights with the latter's children, and though it would be impossible to mention all the prominent socialites we saw, a handful includes Mrs. F. W. A. Stride and Mrs. B. Preston Cutler who worked like beavers all day; Mrs. Francis Marsh, 2d, with her daughter, Joan; Mrs. James Parker, 2d, who wished she had brought her toddling daughter along when she saw all the other tiny youngsters; James Reynolds, who added to his collection of posters by purchasing a couple of colorful European ones; the Rev. Stride who is always the life of the party at the summer fair, was only able to attend briefly in the morning, due to his recent illness; Mrs. William Stuart Forbes, Jr., with orchids on her mobish blue and white print dress and turban . . .

Socialites In Accidents

At first glance there isn't any connection between two of yesterday's interesting news stories, but to a very select circle of Bostonians, there's a very odd coincidence in the news that at the same time that Mr. and Mrs. J. Cornelius Rathborne were perilously stranded in an aerial parachute at the World's Fair, Joseph Cunningham of Milton was stranded in a disabled seaplane in Labrador.

Mrs. Rathborne, who was Nancy Hudekoper, and Joe Cunningham, almost became in-laws a few years ago when the former's sister, Rosalind, was engaged to be married to Joe. The engagement was later broken, but Mrs. Rathborne is nevertheless closely connected with Boston society, being a niece of Mrs. Henry Copley Greene a cousin of Mrs. J. Herbert Stabler and a close friend of Mrs. Vassar Pierce.

Greetings

Today's birthday greetings are for Mrs. John Roosevelt, the former Anne Clark, who will have to blow out twenty two (and one to grow on) candles on her birthday cake this evening. The Roosevelts are spending the summer with Mrs. F. Haven Clark at Nahant.

Socialites Out in Force For Race

There were enough famous names to delight even the most blase of autograph hunters at the Paddock Club during the running of the Massachusetts handicap race yesterday.

Important names in the social world included the Hon. Michael Strutt, a member of the British royal family, who has come over from London to be married to Aerielle Frazer of Newport. He was a target for photographers almost as often as Bing Crosby Poloplaying Raymond Guest and Stephen Sanford were in his party.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt sat inconspicuously in his box, watching the races through binoculars, which he wore slung over his shoulder. Mr. and Mrs. T. Dennie Boardman of Palm Beach and Boston were in a foursome with Sewall Barrell and Holly Philbin, and Mrs. E. Graham Lewis (Elizabeth Arden) was in a party with the Albert Creightons of Swampscott.

Charlotte McElwain, a deb of the season, looked very fetching with a navy bonnet topping her bangs and appropriate paddock pockets on her navy reefer. Mrs. T. Laurence Saunders, up from Newport and in a party with Dudley Clark, and Mrs. George Swift with her daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Lowell Reeve, were other prominent race fans.

Mrs. William C. Cox won on her namesake, Jessie V. L., even though she had to brave the cloudburst to stand on the terrace to watch her win. Debbie Sprague sat with John Good most of the afternoon, after lunching with her parents and Mrs. Edward Carpenter.

Travel Notes

Honeymooning in California are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Caporale, whose marriage took place recently in St. Mary's Church, Boston. Upon their return they will make their home on Beacon Hill.

Among the Bostonians vacationing in Bermuda are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Neckes, Mrs. Snead Thornton, Clara Armstrong and Alice and Emily Read, who are staying at the Inverurie.

Cruising to the West Indies are Mary Noonan and Mary Kane of Boston, and bound for six weeks of holidaying down in Puerto Rico is Mrs. Henry Mailey of Newton.

* * *

Motoring across the continent for several weeks in California are Florence and Elizabeth Landrigan, popular members of the Hull summer colony. The girls, both teachers in Boston schools are prominent in Aristos Club circles.

ANNOUNCE SON

Mr. and Mrs. Alex B. Burgess, Jr., of Boston, announce the birth of a son, Alex M. Burgess, 3d, on July 7th. The infant's mother is the former Helen Ballard of Lexington.

MRS. EDWARD F. McMANUS of Concord and her husband were honored recently on their wedding anniversary by a surprise party given by attendants at their marriage five years ago.

Honored on Anniversary

In celebration of their fifth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. McManus were honored at a surprise reception recently by the attendants in their bridal party.

The affair took place at the McManus home in Concord.

Former bridesmaids who attended included Mrs. John Lynch of Bellerose, Long Island, N. Y., Elizabeth Powers of Cambridge, Rita Gaudet of Boston, Mrs. Joseph Mullaney of Concord and Mrs. Thomas E. McSorley of Brighton.

Among the ushers were Edward J. Flavin of Arlington, James Judge of Taunton, William Collins of Lexington, Joseph McGrose of Attleboro, Edward Finan and Joseph Mullaney, both of Concord. Also John R. McManus of Concord, who was best man at the ceremony five years ago.

Quinn-Tait Ceremony

Mrs. Albert Warren of Chester, N. H., announces the marriage of her daughter, Doris Tait, of Melrose, to Addison A. Quinn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Addison A. Quinn of Chelsea.

Lucy Tait was honor maid for her sister, whose bridesmaids included Marjorie Baillie, Frances Baillie and Jean McLetchie, all of Melrose, and Virginia Heyer of Hingham.

Delicious Iced Tea

By MARTHA LEE.

Drinks that are "icy to the tongue" are the mainstay of summer refreshments.

Perhaps because of its easy preparation, certainly because of its delicate flavor and its cooling effect, iced tea is a favorite summer drink. Properly made, iced tea is sparkling, clear and amber colored—and as cold as it can be! Here are simple, concise directions.

ICED TEA

To make really delicious iced tea of just the right strength and flavor, be sure to use a good quality tea. Pour one pint of fresh, boiling water over six heaping teaspoonfuls of tea and allow it to stand for six minutes. Strain and pour liquid into a two-quart container. While hot, add 1½ cups of granulated sugar and the juice of two lemons. Shake or stir the contents well until sugar is fully dissolved. Fill container with cold water (do not allow tea to cool before adding the cold water). Serve in tall glasses with chipped ice or cubes. A slice of lemon may be added if desired. Makes two quarts of iced tea or 7 tall glasses.

In addition to its many other attributes, iced tea costs surprisingly little to prepare. In fact, it is the most economical beverage in the world except plain water. Including all ingredients, iced tea can be made for about three cents a quart—ridiculously low cost for such a grand, delicious and refreshing drink.

A sufficient quantity can be made each morning to last through the entire day. And what more delicious or refreshing drink could you offer a guest who drops in for an afternoon call on a hot summer day than a glass of sparkling, cold iced tea? Serve it with dainty sandwiches, toasted muffins with jam, or fancy cookies. Here are some suggestions:

MARMALADE DROP CAKES

3 cups sifted cake flour
½ tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 well beaten eggs
¾ cup orange marmalade

Mix and sift flour, soda and salt. Cream shortening; gradually beat in sugar and eggs; stir in flour, then marmalade. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet, about 2 inches apart, and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 12 minutes; remove at once from pans. Makes approximately 4 dozen cookies.

OATMEAL COOKIES

1 cup shortening
2 cups dark brown sugar
2 eggs
2 cups rolled oats
1 3 cup irradiated evaporated milk, and
1 tsp. vinegar, mixed
2 cups flour

IN THE good old summertime, there is nothing more refreshing than a tall, cool glass of delicious iced tea. It really hits the spot, quenches your thirst, cools you off, satisfies your taste and makes you feel more like living. Serve it with a big dish of home-made oatmeal cookies for afternoon refreshment.

1 tsp. soda
¼ tsp. salt
2 tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. cloves
1 cup raisins

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add eggs. Beat well, then stir in oats and milk.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with soda, salt and spices in first mixture. Mix well, then add raisins with last few stirs. Drop from a teaspoon onto greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.)

RIBBON SANDWICHES

Remove crusts from white and whole wheat or graham bread; spread cut ends of loaves with creamed butter or sandwich spread using contrasting colors for each if desired. Cut in ¼ inch slices and put 3 together with dark slice between 2 light slices or light slice between 2 dark slices. Wrap in damp cheesecloth or waxed paper; place under a weight and chill for ½ hour or more. Just before serving, cut in ¾ inch slices. Loaf may be cut in slices then buttered if preferred.

ALMOND SANDWICHES

1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese
1 tbsp. lemon juice
¾ lb. salted almonds

Mash cheese, mix thoroughly with lemon juice. Work in chopped almonds. Spread between thin slices of whole wheat bread, cut in strips or small triangles and garnish each sandwich by pressing half an almond firmly into the center of the top of the bread.

ENGLISH MUFFINS, HAWAIIAN STYLE

English muffins
Butter
Pimiento cheese
Crushed pineapple

Split the English muffins and butter each half, then spread generously with pimiento cheese that has been creamed and softened. Sprinkle each one with drained crushed pineapple. Place under the broiler and cook until cheese is melted and browned.

TOASTED NUT HAMBURGERS

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

INGREDIENTS

1 lb. hamburger
2 tbsp. chopped pecan meats
2 tbsp. chopped walnut meats
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 tbsp. minced onion
6 strips bacon

METHOD OF PREPARATION

Divide the hamburger into 6 individual servings. Form each serving into 2 flat, round cakes. Tap each cake criss-cross with a sharp knife to make the meat hold together. Combine nutmeats, parsley, and onion, and spread on top of 6 cakes. Place a half strip of bacon on top of the nuts, etc. on each of the 6 cakes. Then top with the 6 remaining cakes as covers. Pinch the edges of the cakes together and arrange on a broiler rack. Cook about 8 min. in the broiler oven, which has been preheated 10 min., turning once with a wide spatula. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve on [illegible] bread. Serves 6. For [illegible] make this recipe. You Can Be Beautiful

Pick the Right Shampoo

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU haven't ever been particularly choosy about your shampoo, just so long as it had a good pure base . . . you have a lot to learn about what the right one can do for you. And this is the summer when accent on gloriously healthy and natural looking hair is really stressed.

We're getting accustomed to mid-summer hues . . . and profiting by them, too . . . but it's still especially significant and exciting to come across a really [illegible] one. And this time it's a remarkable shampoo in two versions: one for light hair, one for dark . . . and the regular dollar size is going to be less than a dollar!

Summer sun and wind can be beautiful (it's being said) when it's ashed blonde head light . . . but in the wrong places, usually the top of your head and the side facialists.

Don't let this summer see the natural darkening of your hair combine with surface bleaching to make you look like a mousey calf [illegible]

You should shampoo with a delightful tonic stuff because it does not bleach it does [illegible] cool highlights and help [illegible] natural darkening, which comes from using shampoos [illegible] dull hair.

What's more [illegible] needed to keep the [illegible] stimulated and alive.

The shampoo for dark hair emphasizes natural lustre and spotlights its rich beauty. The pure castile base with slight medicinal properties added keeps it in glorious condition.

To learn about these two unusual shampoos, for light or dark hair, available for a little while at two for a dollar (originally a dollar) phone Arline Gould 146 erty 4000, week days until 5:30, or write, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 13—Youth must be served, and no one knows that better than William Le Baron. He has found more interest in "What A Life," the stage play which he put on the screen with Jackie Cooper and Betty Field, than the most expensive costume productions.

So now "What A Life" is destined to follow in the footsteps of "Andy Hardy" and the "Jones Family" and have to follow up movies with the same characters. "Henry Aldrich In Love" is No. 2, with Jackie, of course, playing Henry. Clifford Goldsmith, author of the original play, has been engaged by Paramount to write the sequels, and if he can keep up the warm human interest of the Hardy and Jones families, Le Baron reckons "he's got something there."

It's a far jump from the love making of Mona Mickey Rooney to Robert Taylor, but if Helen Gilbert, the school teacher in "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever" can stand the shock she's elected to play opposite Bob in "Florian." Helen, for six years a concert pianist, is another one of these gals the studios are springing on us as unknown stars and she was very good as Mickey's school teacher. Blonde and poised, she's very much the "lady" type.

"Florian," you may or may not remember, is the Wesley Ruggles picture which Lee Tracy and Director Dick Rosson in a Nazi concentration camp when he tried to shoot exteriors in Austria.

Chatted with Joseph Breen today and his optimistic outlook on the present summer slump encouraged me. He, as you know, is the local boss of the Hays office and he gets around to the studios probably more than any man in our town. He says there are 59 features and 79 shorts in production, the largest number in five years.

Films at Olympia

"Young Mr. Lincoln," Twentieth Century-Fox fine screen story of Abraham Lincoln, starring Henry Fonda, and "Calling Dr. Kildare," newest adventure of the likeable young physician, played by Lew Ayres and featuring Lionel Barrymore, will be the Washington Street Olympia screen features, starting Saturday.

'CLOUDS OVER EUROPE' SERVES ADVENTURE WITH COMEDY

Sterling Trio Share Honors

By PEGGY DOYLE

Don't be misled by the title of "Clouds Over Europe," chief attraction of this week's Keith Memorial show.

There's hardly a cloud in the picture, nary a scene of Europe, almost no mention of the war clouds which tramping troops are stirring up.

Instead, "Clouds Over Europe" is that rare bird among movies, a genuinely funny British comedy. It pokes fun at the stiff officialdom of the King's Navy and Scotland Yard during their lusterous attempts to cope with a clever ring of spies, who seem especially adept at kidnaping the government's airplanes.

Center of all the comic action is Ralph Richardson, as Major Hammond of Scotland Yard. With the same appeal to audiences which marked his success in "The Citadel," Richardson presents a new type of suave, "know-it-all" detective whose predicaments keep spectators in constant laughter.

Laurence Olivier, who made many a feminine heart throb in his brilliant "Wuthering Heights" performance, and Valerie Hobson carry leading roles with Richardson.

Sigrid Gurie in "Forgotten Woman" and the March of Time, which describes the development of the motion picture industry, are other attractions on the Keith Memorial screen.

Donat Hit Tops Trans-Lux Bill

Robert ("Goodbye, Mr. Chips") Donat, man-of-the-hour since the release of this smash-hit version of the James Hilton best-seller, comes to the Trans-Lux screen in one of his earlier screen successes, "The 39 Steps."

"The 39 Steps" is a story of international spies and their attempts to secure secret government plans of an airplane engine. Donat, as Richard Hannay, is accidentally accused of being the head of the ring by a self-opinionated young woman, Pamela, played by Madeleine Carroll. The story reeks with thrills and comedy and has had glowing reviews.

On the same bill will be "The March of the Movies," showing the 40-year rise of the movie industry, with memorable scenes from the celluloid's earliest efforts, a special reel on the New York World's Fair, entitled "The World of Tomorrow," a Merry Melody color cartoon, "Daffy the Dan Mc Coo," and the usual newsreel dope.

PARAMOUNT-FENWAY STARS—Jack Benny and Dorothy Lamour are co-starred in "Man About Town," opening today at the Paramount and Fenway.

Two First-Run Pictures At RKO Boston Tomorrow

Two first-run features, "The Girl and the Gambler," featuring Leo Carrillo, Tim Holt and Steffi Duna, and "SOS—Tidal Wave," adventure story with Ralph Byrd, Kay Sutton and Frank Jenks, open a four-day showing at the air-conditioned RKO Boston Theater tomorrow.

Leo Carrillo dons sombrero and gun holster for his role of a bold Mexican bandit in "The Girl and the Gambler," film version of the famous Belasco play. "The Dove." A wager with one of his lieutenants leads to his determined efforts to win the affection of a beautiful Mexican dancer. Steffi Duna plays the dancer with Donald MacBride and Chris-Pin Martin.

A glimpse into the future is afforded by "SOS—Tidal Wave." Ralph Byrd is seen as a television news reporter who uses this medium of the airways to smash a corrupt political ring. The climax depicts a tidal wave sweeping over New York City. The latest news and selected shorts complete the program.

'Young Mr. Lincoln' Comes to Uptown

Uptown screen, starting tomorrow, will show "Young Mr. Lincoln," which relates convincingly and interestingly the little known period of "Honest Abe's" young manhood. On the same bill is "East Side of Heaven," with Bing Crosby and Joan Blondell.

'Jezebel' Comes To Tremont

"Boy's Town," with Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney, and "Jezebel," co-starring Bette Davis and Henry Fonda, make up the new twin bill at the Tremont.

Normandie's screen features through Friday are "Dark Victory," with Bette Davis and George Brent, and "East and Love," with Rosalind Russell and Robert Montgomery.

'A Great Man Votes' At Repertory, Square

Attractions on Repertory at Square screens through today are "A Great Man Votes," with John Barrymore, and "Suez," co-starring Tyrone Power and Loretta Young.

Candid Camera Awards at Loew's

Candid camera addicts who succeed in making the best "shots" without flashlight or disturbance, of "Stronger Than Desire," opening today on Loew's State and Orpheum screens, will be gifted with five new Detrola model candid type cameras by Loew's Theaters management.

The gift is inspired by the fact that a candid camera picture, which shows the reflection of the camera-picker in the eyes of the picture just selected as important scenery in "Stronger Than Desire."

Contestants are urged to mail picture entry to the Publicity Department, Loew's State Theater, Boston, Mass., not later than Thursday evening, July 20.

INCIDENTALLY, Day sensed this warm expectant welcome, as well as heard it, and when her troupe glided in and fell into places about her, she was already on a peak of exultation. "Just skate," Lewstein had enjoined

"Don't think, don't look, don't listen." She was skating her best, whirling, prancing, tossing the long, light, feathery plumes. Haute ecole. People had always liked that

And it was her own. No one had taught it to her. recognize the redeemer in their midst.

"The attempt of a society lady in Newport to recognize the majesty of God has resulted in premeditated consternation growing out of prejudice and bigotry."

All this—and more too—Father Divine promised in a 70-minute oration to his flock in another of his "heavens" on Madison avenue in New York.

"I come to put a stop to bigotry," Father Divine added.

"I shall continue to crack the shell of prejudice. I shall cause secrets to put up or shut up. Do they want a brother or do they want a house of God? Do they want the angry waves of deceit to overwhelm them or do they want the truth of God manifested unto them?"

"Al's telling 'em," his followers screamed.

But while Father Divine was shouting his redemption plans, Attorney Filipponi brought sighs of relief to the lips of hotel keepers with his decision to seek a lien. Because of it, Mrs. Kaufman will be unable to transfer the property until the matter of the lien is settled.

Mrs. Kaufman had demanded that either the licensing commission meet her original request for a liquor license or her neighbors "take the property off her hands" under threat of forwarding an invitation tomorrow to "Father" Divine to complete sale details.

Up to that time the demand of the wealthy widow, confined to her bed by a collapse brought on by over-excitement, seemed no idle one. "Father" Divine was displaying marked interest in the situation.

For in his acknowledgement of Mrs. Kaufman's offer, he wired:

"If a final decision is reached, wire me direct information on what terms you desire to receive me and my followers and when it will be most convenient to receive us.

"I am glad to be represented in the act of permitting truth and integrity according to the Declaration of Independence."

At the same time opposition to the establishment of civil headquarters here was received from unexpected source when Rev. J. Quinn Brisben, a Socialist pastor, announced he coming of Dr. Divine on the grounds that there were already enough churches here in Newport to care for the negro population.

Rev. Brisben said he intended to confer with the Rev. Mr. Snow, temporary pastor of the Mt. Zion M. E. Church, and his second [illegible]

MONEY TO LOAN

NOW! A NEW LOAN PLAN
Pick your own monthly repayment

You can borrow from $30 to $300 without asking others to sign with you. Decide on the amount of cash you need, then choose the payment which suits your budget. You may repay in 2 to 20 months, as your income permits. Below is a table showing monthly repayments according to amount borrowed and other plans are available. Then if you find you have trouble keeping the payments, [illegible] can be made if you wish.

Cash Loan Desired	Amount you pay back each month—inclusive of all charges—for following periods: 1 mo	6 mo	8 mo	10 mo	12 mo	16 mo	20 mo
$ 50	$52.44	$11.24	$ 8.48	$ 6.87	$ 5.71	$ 4.27
100	51.88	20.98	14.65	11.95	11.41	9.75	$ 7.98	$ 6.41
150	77.82	31.47	21.98	17.93	17.11	14.62	11.49	9.62
200	103.77	41.96	29.31	23.90	22.81	19.50	15.32	12.83

AUSTEN LAKE

Man With the Softest Job Refuses to Quit

CLEVELAND, O. (en route with the Red Sox)—The sport pages are still whispering that the man with the softest job in the world intends to resign. But when Ole Judge Landis convened his court of baseball notables in New York this week he said with a dramatic quiver of his underlip and a belligerent jutting of his pickerel jaw, "No by . . . . . (obsolete oath)." He had no notion of quitting the sinecure which pays him $52,000 a year for playing golf, living at the best hotels on the cuff and doing a tap of work here and there.

AUSTEN LAKE

The Ole Judge cannot say such simplicities as "No seltzer please" or "just a wee spot" without giving an imitation of a mountain preacher, a carnival spieler and a tail-board politician rolled into one.

So the Ole Judge, now rising 74, sat behind a table at the Hotel Commodore, wagging his silver plume, stabbing imaginary pushbuttons and yipping his airedale's bark, "No . . . No . . . No!"

"Do we infer by your repetitious negatives," asked Mr. John Keiran, the New York commentator who is the leading light of the "Information Please" hour each Tuesday, "that you will not resign?" "Yes," said the Judge, to the obvious befuddlement of all.

"Yes, what?" inquired the company. "Yes!" said the Judge wearily, "I will not resign."

There was a smaller table on the side with assorted sodas, vichies and ginger ales in split sizes ready for mingling with something else, should anybody require a little shock. The assembled journalists sat around taking jottings of the Judge's remarks on the backs of old envelopes.

SOME CAMERA MEN SET UP THEIR black boxes and Landis leaned his chin obligingly on the table top and assumed one of those ponderous picture-scowls of the type he used when he fined the Standard Oil Company $9,000,000 as referee in Chicago's superior court. Conversation languished and someone asked him what was the toughest decision he had been called upon to make as Baseball Commissioner and whether it hadn't been the one during the 1935 World Series when Detroit's bleacherites fired garbage at the St. Louis left fielder. That was the day when they threatened a lynching bee till Landis made up a law on the spur of the moment and tweezed Medwick from the field.

But now the Ole Judge with his gimlet eye and his coroner's growl disclaimed any memory of such an happening and said it just didn't happen. "A figment of imagination," he rumbled. The newsmen laughed. They knew the Judge wished to let old controversies sleep.

LANDIS DOESN'T GET AROUND HIS EMPIRE like he used to in the early days when he travelled like a bloodhound sniffing at any baseball scent which promised scandal and posing his district attorney's attitudes for the Sunday supplements. It must be twelve years since he dropped into Boston the last time to gnash his teeth at some forgotten mischief—I think it was when the Braves were a chain store for the New York Giants.

That was about the time that destiny beckoned Cozy Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell of the Giants out of baseball for a bribery matter and the Judge had cleaned that one up and was shopping for minor sin. For the old man enjoyed his tough guy role and maintained that the only way to keep people good was to scare them good.

But the game of baseball has been pretty well cleansed of its few larcenous characters in the intervening years and the Judge's term as house dick and prosecutor has dwindled to a boresome routine of sorting his mail, which is largely of the seed catalogue, circular letter and financial report type. Except for a few internecine spats between owners his chores are a slumbersome round in which he has only two annual worries—the All Star game and the World Series, over which he presides like a pagan deity and draws $1000 a week, plus liberal expenses.

THE JEDGE, NOW IN HIS MIDDLE 70's, can still do a fair job of worry when he sets his mind to it. He liberated 100 slaves from the Cardinal chain gang a year ago and is fiddling with Detroit's farm system now. But the cow-town bullies, the picturesque rumpots and the wrong-living no-goods which infested the game during his early tenure have given way to a uniformly docile business ball player and the Judge has nearly worked himself out of a job by his own competence.

So, he has resolved into a legendary character who is seen briefly at the Southern training camps where he makes his cordial rounds and enjoys the blessings of the Florida sun with all costs paid from the League purse. His life consists of nudging a golf ball around green acres with his crotchety, rheumatic swing. Or he appears hustling through some World Series hotel, dressed in the hammy externals of an Uncle Tom actor, his property cane clutched in his fist, wearing his common people's hat and hand-me-down coat off the pipe-rails.

He doesn't have to do much for his $52,000 any more, but does it with great gusto and manages to make history from non-essentials. So, at New York, he presided over the All-Star game and then left town with the exalted conscience of a man who has performed a prodigy of brain labor and goes forth virtuously to a summer of recuperative loafing.

He makes a hobby of elegantly profane bluster and has a schoolboy's weakness for cheesy swagger. But his charities and good works are both secretly and generously done. He gives away much of what he earns and is the softest touch in the U. S. A. So, though he has become more ornamental than useful to the game which he made sanitary after the Black Sox scandal in 1919, I, for one, will be sorry when his bones grow too brittle or his jibleis too soft to creak around on his occasional inspections. I am glad that he has delayed taking down his Commissioner's shingle and deferred retiring his kindly bluster to some hearth corner of his home.

Medalist Martin Bows To Hood in 1st Round

By BILL GRIMES

TEDESCO COUNTRY CLUB, July 13—Leo Martin of Sandy Burr, two-year medalist in the State amateur golf championship, was ejected summarily in the first round of match play today by Bobby Hood of Bowdoin, 3 and 2.

Another upset of momentous proportions was announced a few minutes after the Martin-Hood match when the little known Arthur Stone, Sharon, reported an extra hole victory over Emory Stratton of Belmont.

Stratton was the pre-tournament favorite to succeed to Fred Wright's title.

As if that were not enough, roly-poly Joe Lynch of Blue Hill, who reached the semi-finals of the national amateur a few years back was eliminated by Ray Marad, a public links golfer from the George Wright course, 1 up. Dave White, side, who won the championship two years ago, was defeated by Tom O'Leary, Sharon, and Joe Lacombe of Salem was put out by the former ex-caddy from Walpole, John Waloshyn.

SECOND ROUND PAIRINGS

Griswold Queen In Final Again

EASTERN POINT, Ct., July 13 (AP)—Helen Waterhouse of Providence, trophy defender, today qualified for the final of Shennecossett's Griswold Cup tournament by defeating Mrs. Sylva Annenberg Leichner of White Plains, N. Y., one up.

Jean Rauer, also of Providence, won the other semi-final match from her home town rival, Mrs. Frederick G. Davis, by the same margin of one up.

The final match will be played over the 18-hole distance tomorrow, starting at 10 a. m. (E. D. T.).

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Denny Shute, two-time defending champion, was ousted in third round of P. G. A. tourney by Jimmie Hines, New York, 2 and 1.

THREE YEARS AGO—Luis Angel Firpo was badly beaten in comeback attempt by Arturo Godoy, young Chilean heavyweight. Firpo, floored in the second and third rounds, was unable to come out for the fourth.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Babe Ruth hit 700th home run of his career in game with Detroit as Lou Gehrig, suffering from lumbago, was forced out of lineup after 1½ innings.

METZ, WITH 66, 4 UP ON RUNYAN AT 18TH

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Dick Metz, handsome Lake Forest, Ill., contender, toured the Pomonok Country Club course in 66, six under par and one shot off the competitive course record, to finish the morning 18 holes 4 up on defending Champion Paul Runyan in their 36-hole quarter-final match in the national P. G. A. golf championship today.

After playing the title-holder even for the first nine in a par of 32's, Metz kept hitting the ball beautifully through the back nine while Runyan, usually as consistent, had to scramble to stay as close as he did.

METZ'S GREAT PITCH

The 18th hole was typical of the pressure Metz, runner-up for the 1938 United States open crown, kept on the White Plains (N. Y.) pro all the way.

Runyan pitched on the green, 15 feet from the pin, for a potential birdie, but his rival followed up with a 100-yard pitch that dropped inches from the pin, bounced off it on the back spin, and stopped a shade over six inches away.

Metz started the back nine with a birdie on the 10th, where he canned a 6-footer; got a birdie 4 on the 11th, where he laid his pitch 5 feet from the cup, and won the 13th with a par as Runyan was trapped off the tee.

On the 14th Metz got a bad break when the kick-back of his approach rolled his ball down a slope in the green, but got a good break as Runyan, going boldly for the pin from 30 feet away, hit Metz's ball and knocked it ten feet nearer the cup.

Runyan brought Metz back to even up at the one-shot seventeenth by ramming a handsome 24-foot putt right into the back of the cup for a deuce. Then came the 18th.

PICARD ALL EVEN

Henry Picard, the candy kid from Hershey, Pa., finished all even with Red Munday, Runyan's assistant, by winning the 17th, where he laid his man a stymie and Munday knocked his ball into the hole, and the 18th, where Munday, still off his stride after that accident, hit his tee shot out of bounds.

Byron Nelson, reigning open champion, tied the medal play course record of 65 set by Johnny Farrell in a qualifying round for the 1927 U. S. open to go to lunch 7 up on Emerick Koenig of Orion, Mich.

Horton Smith won two holes on the back nine and halved the other seven to be 1 up on E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, his protege and assistant to Hunter, a brother, Ken Smith, at Oak ark ille.

Leo Martin Stars In State Amateur | Tedesco Falls To Baffle Stars

—By BILL GRIMES

Leo, one of the well known Martin twins, turned in a truly remarkable feat when he carded rounds of 70-72 for a 142 during the qualifications of the 35th Massachusetts amateur championship at Tedesco.

Prior to the championship, Tedesco had the contenders for the state title which Freddie Wright allowed to go by default, running a fever . . . It was supposed to be the toughest course that the M. G. A. had ever selected for the annual state classic . . . Some of the experts have opined that a low scoring an even dozen who posted 149s play- ed off for one place . . . the field was the fastest on record . . . Others believe that the course was overrated as being a difficult, tricky layout . . .

FRED WRIGHT

In all probability the low scoring was due to a combination of the above mentioned reasons plus the fact that the course is in beautiful condition and that the recent drought dissipated the rough . . . Although a field of 126 golfers played two rounds at Tedesco, not one complaint against the course has been registered . . . A finer tribute could not be paid . . .

Joe Wood demonstrated to the satisfaction of the entire congregation yesterday at Fenway Park that he can still powder that pill . . It's a real feat for a player of Woodie's age to loft one over the left field wall, even with Chippy Gaw serving . . . It was poor booking to stage the Old Timers' game so that it conflicted with the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap . . .

Dave Sullivan, Blue Hill, the 16 year-old youngster, who came within one stroke of making the playoff yesterday at Tedesco, is going to give some of the juniors plenty of trouble. . . . The annual junior championship will be played on Dave's home course . . .

Had Bob Adams, the current junior champion of the state, pulled a trick of taking an eight at the 11th hole yesterday, he would have equaled Tony Manero's course record of 68. . . For, with the eight, he posted a 72.

Henry Wischausen, Bellevue, saved his best shot of the qualifying rounds for the playoff . . . Teed against 11 contenders for the last place of the draw, Wischausen rolled out a 30-yard approach shot for a "birdie" three to survive the qualifications . . .

Teddy Adams, South Shore, did enough scrambling on his way to the turn yesterday to use up 50 strokes . . . And, but for three long putts he'd have wound up in the middle 80s . . . Fortunately, Teddy is one of those happy go-lucky kids, who refuses to allow anything to worry him . . . Just as soon as he gets a little more serious, Teddy Adams will take his place among the ranking New England amateurs . . .

Herman Kiessling "aced" the 6th hole at the Brookline "munie" yesterday while playing with Spear Demeter, Harold Dushame and David Mille . . .

The cloudburst that overtook him at the 11th hole yesterday cost Joe Kelly, George Wright's match play berth in the state amateur. Joe took an eight on the hole . . .

A par would have given him a 36-hole total of 150 . . . The breaks were against Young Joe Monahan at Tedesco . . . One of these years, Joe is going to click and when he does watch out . . . Twenty one clubs have represented golfers in the first round of match play today at Tedesco . . . The entertaining club qualified four. The Country Club three, South Shore, Wollaston, Salem, New Bedford, Sharon and Bellevue two, and Vesper, Oak Hill, Wachusett, Blue Hill, Sandy Burr, Belmont, Kernwood, Oyster Harbors, Cunningham, Happy Valley, Wollaston, Woodland and Green Hill, one each . . .

Grover Alexander

Grover Cleveland "Pete" Alexander, one of the greatest of all time pitchers, told a great story the night before the Old Timers' Game . . . During an exhibition game between the Senators and the Phillies, Pete went to bat three times against Walter Johnson . . . He was taken out for a pinch hitter in the 8th inning . . . When he was told by Manager Pat Moran that he was out, Pete asked "Why take me out, Pat? I hit three line drives off that speed king" . . . "You didn't hit a ball," replied Pat . . . "What you thought were line drives was the catcher throwing the ball back to Johnson" . . .

Poffenberger Cut Loose

MONTREAL, July 13 (AP)—The Montreal Royals of the International League just about gave up on Cletus Elwood (Roof) Poffenberger, eccentric right-hand pitcher, formerly with Detroit and Brooklyn.

The Royals' president, Hector Racine, announced that Poffenberger is up to his old disappearing tricks, and that, as a result, the club feels the hurler "doesn't figure in its plans now."

"On four occasions in the last fortnight," Racine explained, "Poffenberger has informed us he would report on a certain date, and four times he has failed. It's quite obvious we can't depend on a man like that."

Monte Weaver Goes to Colonels

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 13 (AP)—The Louisville Colonels of the American Association announced acquisition from the Boston Red Sox of the American League of right hand Pitcher Monte Weaver. He is expected to join the club Friday.

The former University of Virginia mathematics instructor, who began his professional baseball career in 1928, was obtained by Boston from the Washington Senators last spring. With the Senators Weaver won 70 games and lost 59 in eight seasons.

B's Arm to Teeth To Thwart Attack Of Western Clubs

The sun was shining again today, and so Casey Stengel told the boys to break out their pitchforks and make a little hay for themselves.

This is the time for our Bees-os to do it. Starting with a double header with the Cards today, they're home until July 24, and they have every man fit again for this division drive.

Lou Fette performed admirably in the all-star game in New York, and announced today that it was the first time since his arm went sour that he had put anything on the ball. He's ready for his regular turn.

Jim Turner reports that he can run and pitch again without his nose feeling as if it would drop off every minute.

Tony Cuccinello has been playing the best ball of his career since his six weeks absence with his injured knee.

And Max West injured when hit by a Mulcahy pitch Sunday, was ready to take his post in center field again today.

The Bees are ready for the surge. They have four games to play with the Cards and plan a clean up. The Cards are in the first division only four games away. The Bees have something to shoot for.

After the Cards come the Reds. They have a double header scheduled for next Sunday and single games on Monday and Tuesday. Follow the Cubs, then the Pirates.

None of the Western clubs is peculiarly torrid right now, and the Bees have a fine chance to sweep north again.

The Cards, eight games behind the league leading Reds, have been hitting the ball well but outside of Lon Warneke they haven't been getting the pitching they anticipated early in the season.

Mize, Medwick and Brown are pounding the ball, but for that matter so are Cuccinello, Simmons, West and Hassett.

With their bad luck behind them it looks as if our Bees will do better as they enter the second half of the league race than they did in the first half.

Manager Casey Stengel nominated Bob Feller, and All-star Lou Fette has two game winners to start against the Cards this afternoon. Ray Lade pinned his hopes on Warneke and Davis.

PLAY-BY-PLAY

FIRST GAME.

FIRST INNING

CARDS — J. Martin singled. Brown singled. Sandlock walked. Mize filled to Sanders. J. Martin scored on a fielder's choice by Hopper. Stack Medwick struck out. Padgett was thrown out by Lopez. Mize scored. NO RUNS.

BEES — Cuccinello singled to left. Hassett singled to right. Cuccinello forced West. Martin to Brown. Hassett scoring. J. Martin threw out Moore. TWO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

CARDS — S. Martin singled. Davis reached Boswell to Hassett. J. Martin fouled to West. Mize threw out Brown. NO RUNS.

BEES — Moore flied to Sandlock. Lopez threw out Lopez. Fette struck out. Garms lined to Moore. NO RUNS.

Hollingsworth Goes For Newark Hurler

PHILADELPHIA, July 13 (AP) —The Philadelphia National League baseball club announced today Al Hollingsworth had been traded to the Newark Bears for Roy Johnson Hughes, 27-year-old right hander. Hollingsworth has won 10 games and lost nine this season.

SOX FACE FELLER UNDER LIGHTS

By JOE CASHMAN

CLEVELAND, O., July 13—The Red Sox play their first game under the lights against Bob Feller and the Indians here tonight, and it would not be surprising if Manager Joe Cronin used his new towering acquisition, Bill "Red" Sayles, in this nocturnal debut.

Sayles joined the club here this morning, coming up from Little Rock where he was rated the best pitcher in the league. His forte is a blazing fast one and that should go well under the lights.

Sayles isn't scheduled to start. It'll be either Jack Wilson or Jake Wade. But if either needs relief, you may expect to see Jim Bagby's successor step into the breech.

PENNANT AIMS

The Sox come here on the wings of an eight-straight victory flight, with five successive wins over the Yanks topping off the streak.

Pennant ambitions run high. The boys think the Yanks have cracked at last, and they look ahead eagerly to the last half of the race, and the extra $5000 World Series dough. It's a nice little bundle.

Feller has never been licked under the stars, but the Sox aren't worrying too much.

They have seven pitchers ready to go, all buoyant after their success against the Yankees.

While this Cleveland night game will have little bearing on the Sox flag chances, this entire third Western invasion will go a long way toward [illegible]

Holes 2 Aces on Same Round

WORCESTER, July 13 (INS) —Once you get the knack of it, scoring a hole in one is a routine matter.

So decided 21-year-old J. T. Hanson today after sinking two aces during the course of a single nine-hole round at Lincoln Country Club.

Warming up by sinking a hole in one on the 185-yard sixth, Hanson found it a simple matter to duplicate the feat on the 175-yard ninth.

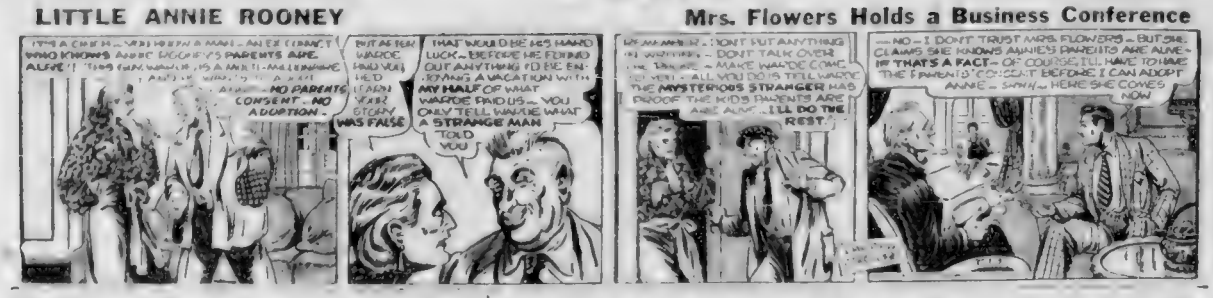
LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY



IT'S A CINCH — WE'VE BEEN A MAN AND WIFE FOR TWENTY YEARS AND WHO KNOWS ABOUT OUR BOY'S PARENTS ARE ALIVE! THEN I'M GOIN' TO ADOPT HIM AND — NO PARENTS CONSENT — NO ADOPTION —
BUT AS FOR WARDE HAD YOU HEARD LEARN YEAR STORY WAS FALSE
THAT WOULD BE HIS HARD LUCK — BEFORE HE FOUND OUT ANYTHING I'D BE EN- JOYING A VACATION WITH MY HALF OF WHAT WARDE PAID US — YOU ONLY TELL WARDE WHAT A STRANGE MAN TOLD YOU — DON'T WORRY — DON'T PUT ANYTHING IN WRITING — DON'T TALK OVER THE PHONE — MAKE WARDE COME TO SEE YOU — THAT'S ALL YOU DO IS TELL WARDE THE MYSTERIOUS STRANGER HAS PROOF THE KID'S PARENTS ARE ALIVE — I'LL DO THE REST.
— NO — I DON'T TRUST MRS. FLOWERS — BUT SHE CLAIMS SHE KNOWS ANNIE'S PARENTS ARE ALIVE — IF THAT'S A FACT — OF COURSE, I'LL HAVE TO HAVE THE PARENTS' CONSENT BEFORE I CAN ADOPT ANNIE — SHHH — HERE SHE COMES NOW

THE RABBIT'S TAUNTON DOG FORM

BEST—COMMANDING LADY

TAUNTON, July 13 Tonight's Gold Collar championship should develop into a contest in which Commanding Lady from Joe Ayotte's fine kennel with Jessie Iyer work cut out to win from Rural Crier, of the string being raced by Mrs. Marie C. Sparks.

Commanding Lady is on the extreme outside, with Rural Crier on the rail, and I look to see the Ayotte hound annex the title. In fact, I feel she finishes better than any dog racing here, and I make her my best bet of the night.

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY

Mary Donnelly Hurls For Olympets Nine

Just promoted to the varsity by Manager Howie McHugh, Mary Donnelly of Framingham will pitch for the Boston Olympets against the Manhattan Beach Girls tonight in the feature game of a softball twin bill at the Boston Garden.

VIRGINIA DAGG
She Bats No. 3 for Pets

In the preliminary game, the newly-formed Totem Pole girls team from Norumbega opposes the Home Service Laundry girls' nine from Worcester in an official Metropolitan League game.

Miss Donnelly has been performing for the Gardenias to date and performing admirably.

In her last two starts she has pitched shutout ball, holding the Rehoharth Milkmaids and the Totem Pole girls to five unearned runs.

Tonight she will be facing the holders of the Colonel John Reed Kilpatrick trophy, emblematic of Metropolitan New York honors.

This season the New Yorkers have dropped but one decision and that to the Linden Girls who turned back the Pets in a 12-inning thriller here two weeks ago.

The preliminary game will see Mary Pratt tossing her left-handed slants for Ben Levias' Totem Pole team.

Mary pitched for the Pets last week against the state champions from Springfield and turned in a very creditable performance.

The first game will get under way at 7:45 and will go for seven innings. The feature game should start at about 9 p. m.

King, Eng Meet In Match Race

Highlighting a strong ten-race card with a special match race between Bob King of Waltham and Ed Eng, battle scarred Nashua veteran, a record crowd is anticipated at Medford tonight in the New England championship midget auto races at the Riverside Park speedway.

Eng, who is considered one of the finest midget speed kings in the country, has been racing in nothing but hard luck this summer, while King is winning 10 out of his first 12 races here has gone far out front in the battle for the N. E. title.

This sensational riding on King's part has won him plaudits everywhere, and he is now being hailed as the best driver in these parts. Eng, resenting King's achievements, or luck as he calls it, challenged King to a special mile speed race tonight to disprove the myth of King's greatness.

King, instead of a backing down as Eng expected, accepted the offer and went one step further by insisting that they race for a winner-take-all purse rather than follow the usual proceedure of split 60-40. Eng, naturally, had to take the offer and is now all the more determined to come home on top—one way or another.

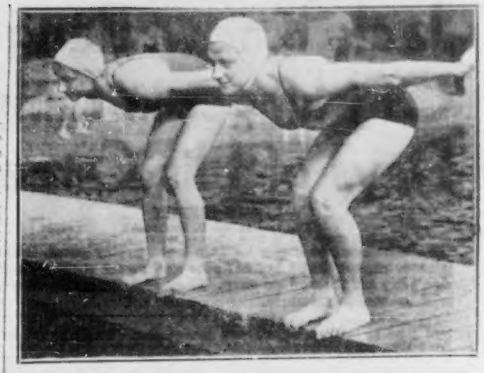
3 Title Events At Canobie Lake

The women's national junior 220-yard freestyle championship race is the feature attraction for the eighth annual meet of the Boston Swimming Association at the Canobie Lake pool at Salem, N. H., tomorrow night, due to the fact a New York girl is to vie against New England stars for the crown, but outshining it from a competitive standpoint may be one of three New England title events also listed on the program.

The race in question is the senior 440-yard freestyle for the women. It will bring together New England's two national indoor champions, Doris Brennan of the Olneyville Boys Club Auxiliary and Dorothy Leonard of the Worcester W. S. A.; also the latest youngster to spring into prominence in swimming, 12-year-old Norma Ewart of the Olneyville Club, and Patricia Power of the Worcester W. S. A.



OLNEYVILLE NAIADS competing tomorrow in Canobie Lake meet. Miss Soltysiak is entered in national 220-yard freestyle championship. Miss Brennan is defending her 440-yard freestyle title.

Jack Knew Pangs Of Hunger in Early Days of His Career

By JACK DEMPSEY
(As told to W. B. Seabrook)
(Copyright by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

When out of camp I guess I eat pretty much what I please, except that I lay off pies and sweet stuff. Or if I don't lay off them, I go easy. They seem to put on weight without making muscle.

I'm not hungry at breakfast unless I go to walk first, and you don't often get a chance to do that. I eat any fruit, grapefruit, orange; sometimes a dish of prunes; two cups of coffee and a couple of pieces of toast. Maybe sometimes a three-minute egg.

The lunch I like best of all is a dish of beef stew with plenty of vegetables in it, and maybe a baked apple or something afterward.

Dinner, well you know how dinners are. You're out somewhere half the time, and you eat whatever there is. It's all the same to me. I don't bother much about diet, except in camp.

SIMPLE MEALS ALWAYS

Even in heavy training, breakfast and lunch were about the same, but I have to eat a solid dinner at night, plenty of rare meat and potatoes, usually roast beef or sirloin. It takes that to build you and keep you going when you're sweating it out of you every day.

About the actual fighting, they say it's a bad thing to fight on a full stomach, but believe me it's worst to fight on an empty one. I remember fighting once out in Cripple Creek—I don't even remember who the guy was, and it was long before I amounted to anything—and my dinner that night was coffee and sinkers, a couple of greasy doughnuts. I was to get $5 if I lost or if it was a draw, and $10 if I won. I didn't have any manager, and I was flat.

Well, about the fourth round I began to get a funny feeling at the pit of my stomach, and he hadn't hit me there either. And I had a tough time going the ten rounds for a draw.

The day of the Carpentier fight I had a big rare sirloin with red blood running out of it and a big dish of potatoes mashed in cream. That kind of stuff stays with you. I had it exactly three hours before I went into the ring, and after I ate it I lay down in the dark for three-quarters of an hour and almost went to sleep.

When I stepped into the ring I guess you might say I was neither full nor empty. I didn't know I had a stomach. But believe me you know it afterward.

At first, when you come out of a big fight, you don't think about eating—especially if you've been pounded on the body a lot. You feel tired, but all keyed up, on edge, as if you still had to keep going. You think you'll hear that gong again in a minute. You don't exactly think it, either.

THE MOB SEES HIM

Your head tells you it's all over, but your body won't believe it. About two hours later, after you've been rubbed and lazed around a while, you wake up to it that you're so hungry you could eat a horse.

Dempsey then stopped talking diet.

At this moment in the conversation there occurred an unexpected interruption. I said at the outset that Jack Dempsey is the hero and idol of the American small boy.

Nobody can realize the extent of that adoration without traveling around with him. One afternoon, we were lunching in a practically empty chop-house, diagonally across from the stage entrance to Loew's Theater in Buffalo.

When I came out to dodge across the street I was mobbed by a crowd that quickly blocked all traffic. It consisted mostly of small boys in caps.

We had gone to a big round table in the rear, Dempsey, Jack Kearns, Damon Runyon and two other friends.

The door suddenly swung open and in popped a ragged red-haired kid, scared pale beneath his freckles—scared at his own nerve. The cashier started to grab him and put him out, but he ducked past him and in a trot, which slowed down to a hesitating shuffle as he approached my table.

Then he lost his nerve entirely and sat down at another table.

The proprietor went over to him and said:

"Hey, what do you want in here?"

The kid, being red-headed, managed to get part of his nerve back. He fished in his pants pocket, pulled out a nickel planked it on the table ad said:

"Coffee. This here's a restaurant, ain't it?"

The proprietor looked at me and I gave him a wink and nod and then called out.

"Hey, buddy, come on over and join the circle."

Five minutes later, the kid was eating apple pie and ice cream and grinning like a cherub in heaven. Pretty soon, he ventured to say:

"Gee, champ this is the swellest joint I've ever been in. My folks'll think I'm a liar."

And then, in response to the champion's questions, he told all about himself. His name was Red Mahoney, he was Irish, and his father was a coal shoveller. Some of the other kids at the window had dared him to go in, and he wouldn't take a dare. When he went out a half-hour later, he was almost as big a hero as myself.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, Dempsey discusses boxing as a career.

Tony Cuccinello Jr. Defends Title to his "Breakfast of Champions"

Big Tony, one of the best second basemen in the business, speaks for young Tony and Mrs. Cuccinello, too, when he says: "I go strong for a dish that looks good—so crisp and refreshing at the breakfast table! And with that extra-good flavor Wheaties have—it's no wonder I'm telling you to get next to the all-around breakfast champion—Wheaties!"

Yes, Tony Cuccinello and his family like their Wheaties for breakfast. And young Tony (big photo) seems ready to battle for his. Watch big Tony do his stuff tomorrow

Help yourself to a "Breakfast of Champions," morning. Have a glass of fruit juice, then a big bowl of whole wheat—Wheaties,—with plenty of milk or cream. That's the nourishing, satisfying breakfast that leads the leagues for flavor.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

AS JIMMY STOUT, jockey on Fighting Fox, hurried out of the jockeys' room to get his leg up on his mount for the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap, Harry Richards, jockey on Challedon, passed him.

"I'll agree to split my share of the purse with you in the event I win if you'll give me a similar promise," Stout said to Richards.

"Nix, Jimmy," shot back Richards, "I'm taking five grand home tonight."

After Fighting Fox had won the classic in impressive style, Stout met Richards back in the jockeys' room.

"You passed up $2500," declared Jimmy with a grin.

"I didn't want to play things safe," answered Richards. "I thought I was to cinch to win with Challedon. My horse kept hopping up and down until he reached the half-mile post. He then got straightened out, and ran his true race during the last half mile, but it was too late."

"I was home by that time with Fighting Fox," asserted Stout. "Fighting Fox had plenty in reserve during the stretch run. When Pompoon made his great bid for victory, I could feel him moving up and I let Fighting Fox run. Fighting Fox cut loose with tremendous power."

"What happened to Ligaroti?" asked Steward Tom Thorp.

"When the mud started to come up into his face as we raced down the back stretch, he slowed down," answered Jockey McCombs.

"Speaking of mud," asserted George Seabo who had been up on Nedayr, "I was blinded by mud by the time we reached the five-sixteenths pole. From then on I couldn't see. Nedayr took himself home."

"Pagliacci didn't like the going after having got away to a good start," declared Jockey Bobby Merritt.

There wasn't a harsh word spoken by a single jockey following the race. It had been a clean contest with everybody striving his utmost to win.

BEFORE THE race, Tom Thorp entered the jockeys' room.

"The Massachusetts Handicap is New England's biggest race," declared Thorp. "You boys have been riding well at Suffolk Downs, and I want you to continue doing so today.

"For any violation of the rules there will be a 90 days' suspension. Don't come to me in the event you are found guilty of a violation and tell me of your family responsibilities. Think of those things now. I feel there will not be an occasion for the stewards to suspend anybody for 90 days, as I believe you boys will ride hard, clean races. May God bless you kids."

Before the big races, Tom Thorp always takes a minute out for silent prayer. He prays that none of the little human mites up on the thoroughbreds suffers an injury. Tom knows from his long racing experience that death always rides beside jockeys as they go whooping away from the barrier.

FIGHTING FOX proved the better horse. He got off to an early lead and was never headed. He met the challenge from Pompoon in the race through the stretch, and went on to score a glorious victory by the margin of a head. Burning Star was third with Challedon fourth.

I came up with a $2 ticket on Fighting Fox by playing price horses. I had $2 win tickets on Fighting Fox, Pagliacci and Honey Cloud. I was trying to get a price horse who would outrun Challedon and Fighting Fox did it. The $31 payoff on Fighting Fox was a juicy one.

It was another case of where the public felt its choice couldn't be beaten. Anything can happen to a favorite when a 12-horse field goes into action.

There was $104,950 wagered on the Massachusetts Handicap. The mutuel handle for the day failed to hit $600,000. I understand that one of the reasons for the recent drop in the mutuel handle is because there has not been as much come back money as in former years. The heat is on against some of the big bookmakers in New York, and as a result they are not taking big wagers on races at the East Boston track.

There was a time when one big New York bookmaker, now under fire, sent thousands of dollars in come back money to Suffolk Downs and Agawam.

BING CROSBY stole the show as far as the celebrities were concerned . . . Former Governor Curley was in the Paddock Club in the company of Col. Edward Donnelly and Mrs. Donnelly . . . Leo Goulston, Tommy Carens, former City Councillor Johnny McGrath, Dr. Ross, Bruce Wetmore, John T. Lambert, Charles F. Adams, Billy McMenimen, Sheldon Fairbanks, Johnny Buckley, Ken Kling, Allan Wilson, Racing Commissioners Conors, Pierce and Allen, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and numerous other notables were on parade in Paddock Club and clubhouse.

George Holland ran a short bankroll into a respectable size and cheered lustily when Remarkable finished second . . . George had the animal across the board . . . The storm for a time threatened to mar the show, but then the sun came out and weather conditions were ideal even if the horses and jockeys got mud in their eyes . . . Those bettors who wagered on Challedon also came up with mud in their eyes . . . As Sergeant Eddie Mack left the press box, he remarked:

"The Bible says thou shalt go clean, and this applies to bettors at race tracks."

Conn 13-5 Over Bettina

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., will have a three-pound weight advantage tonight when he defends his interest in the lightheavyweight title against Billy Conn of Pittsburgh at Madison Square Garden. Bettina, recognized in New York State as at the 175-pound king, weighed in at 173½ pounds today and Conn at 170¼.

NEW YORK, July 13 (INS)—Billy Conn of Pittsburgh was a 13 to 5 favorite over Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., in their 15-round bout tonight at Madison Square Garden for the lightheavyweight championship.

Bettina is recognized as champion by the New York state boxing commission and the National Boxing Association, which some time ago deposed John Henry Lewis as titleholder because he was nearly blind in one eye, will recognize tonight's winner as the head of the division.

Bettina gained the title in the eyes of the New York commission by knocking out Tiger Jack Fox,

Fighting Fox Proves Great Thoroughbred

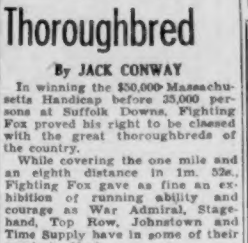
By JACK CONWAY

In winning the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap before 35,000 persons at Suffolk Downs, Fighting Fox proved his right to be classed with the great thoroughbreds of the country.

While covering the one mile and an eighth distance in 1m. 52s., Fighting Fox gave as fine an exhibition of running ability and courage as War Admiral, Stagehand, Top Row, Johnstown and Time Supply have in some of their greatest efforts.

Those bettors who used to attack Fighting Fox's courage when he failed to battle through the stretch were forced to admit he was every inch a thoroughbred as he held off the closing rush of Pompoon.

Jockey Jimmy Stout gave Fighting Fox a swell ride. He got his mount off in front early, opened up a lead on the contention, and had enough in reserve to come thundering through the stretch to a head victory as Pompoon made a blazing finish. Fighting Fox's victory gave the Belair Stud $49,250.



Fighting Fox half length ahead of Pompoon at finish

Burning Star turned in a surprisingly good performance to finish third.

Challedon, the favorite, was fourth. Challedon got off poorly, and did not begin to run properly until he reached the half-mile post. It was then too late for him to catch Fighting Fox and Pompoon.

The race wasn't marred by any illegal riding or by any accidents. There is not any question but that the better horse won. Ten more days and the 60-day meeting at Suffolk Downs will close.

Lou Smith is already brushing up for the Rockingham Park meeting that gets underway on July 24. That's racing. Always looking ahead to the next track.

Saints, Caseys Renew Battle

The St. Augustine-Dick Casey Club rivalry will be renewed tonight in a Boston Park League feature at South Boston Stadium when the 1938 champion Saints attempt to win another from the Caseys with whom they stand one win and two losses. Charlie Wedemeyer, winner of four straight for the Caseys may be assigned tonight to set back Benson's boys.

All three games being played tonight are rained out or postponed dates and the other clubs catching up with their schedules are Star of the Sea and St. Alphonsus who have a date at Fens Stadium in the Back Bay, and the Murphy Club of Brighton with an engagement with St. Catherine's at Barry Field in Charlestown.

ROOM AND BOARD By Gene Ahern

WHAT! IS THAT OLD CABOOSE IS THE CAMP CLUB?— BUT AT HOME YOU WERE SHOWING A PRETTY FAIR-LOOKING CARDBOARD MODEL OF THE CLUB!—
TUSH, SNOOF, I THOUGHT I MADE IT PLAIN THAT THE MODEL IS HOW THE CLUBHOUSE WILL LOOK NEXT YEAR!
MMMMM—I'VE GOT A NOTION TO MAKE A SWAMP MYSTERY OUT OF YOU, JUDGE!
SAP, MAN!—THROW OFF THE DARK MANTLE OF CARE AND STRIFE! UNRAVEL THE LOOSE THREAD OF WORRY AND RELAX! BEHOLD SNUG CAMP PUFFLE!
CAMP PUFFLE
MMMM, IT'S QUIET
